IDEAS FOR INSPIRATION part 1

I have a lot of books about graphic design. Some of them a little older but I can find so much good information.

I think even although trends change every year, the basic principles of design remain the same and is very important to read as much as possible.

I am little old-fashioned - I still prefer reading the physical book and not the digital copy. The feeling is different .
But is important to have your own library - either physical or digital.

The typography idea book

Steven Heller & Gail Anderson

“Playing with typographic puzzle pieces is one of the joys of graphic design, and typographers have many entertaining, esoteric and exentric options at their disposal. This book presents 50 of the most inspiring aproaches used by masters of the field from across the world.”

Pictorial
Image as letter/symbol

They say that a picture is worth a thousand words, so, what if that picture is of a letter or word? Then it must be worth even more. What we call pictorial type may not be pure typography, but it can be effective design.

Alex Steinweiss's 1941 cover design for AD (Art Direction) magazine is a pictorial–letter combo. The theme of the issue was the aesthetics of recorded music, including a written profile about Steinweiss, America's album-design pioneer, who was the first designer to use original art on a record sleeve, in this instance for Columbia Records. When asked to design a custom nameplate for the publication, he cleverly repeated Steinweiss (1917–2011) used a draftsman's set-square, or triangle, as the A to represent design, and a compass, or half a 78 rpm record, as the D. It clearly reads as AD, but it also symbolises record design.

Employing an illustrative concept such as this is practical only when the image is in conceptual harmony with the content being illustrated. In the case of AD, Steinweiss made a flawless connection. Just a year or two before, however, the same magazine was called IM (Production Manager) – one wonders which images he might have used then to represent those letters and whether he would have struggled to establish a personal connection with them? Timing is everything.

Making this pictorial technique work may seem as easy as fitting a square peg into a square hole, but the trick to making great illustrative typography is in not forcing the wrong image into that hole.

Alex Steinweiss, 1941

Experimental
Changing the look of language

There are many ways to read text. Not everyone scans from left to right. Not all alphabets have twenty-six letters. Challenging norms is essential to maintaining any living language, and the language of typography is no exception. Some of the twentieth century's most audacious experimentation was attempted during the late 1910s and early 1920s, during a period of revolutionary fervor in Russia and Europe. The 1917 Russian Revolution triggered a series of typographic tremors throughout Europe that were particularly potent in the hearts and minds of the Russian Constructivists, among whom El Lissitzky was a leading provocateur.

His cover for Object (the Constructivist bible of design and culture journal aimed at a European readership) championed Constructivism and Suprematism and remains the piece of revolutionary typographic language. It is a model for how pushing the standards of typography can change the look of language itself. To experiment means to attempt things never tackled before. It also means you take a chance to fail. Lissitzky's Object is now classic, though it was a risk at the time to employ abstract geometry in combination with recognisable typefaces.

When experimenting typographically, it is useful to refer some familiar faces so the reader is not overcome by risk, and then play with shapes and materials in such a way that the underlying elements can be understood, never leave the solid ground on the color. You should understand the needs and interests of the audience, as Lissitzky did, so that even though the result may initially shock the system, the user or viewer will come to appreciate the challenge.

The Color Scheme Bible

by Anna Starmer

“With 150 color scheme ideas to choose from, this book is an easy-to-use and inspiring reference to using color in the home. It describes how colors interact and the effects they have on a room. It explains how to choose colors that complement each other for a subdued effect, and which colors and combinations energize a room.”

DECIPHERING THE RAINBOW

Color theory

Color is taken for granted today as an intrinsic part of every waking moment. It is beneficial, however, to make a point to learn how the human eye perceives color. The following scientific principles can be used as much or as little as you like. They can help you to make decorating decisions that will turn a simple color scheme into a successful interior.

Isaac Newton (1642–1727) explained that color originates in light. After much experimentation he worked out that light is made up of several different colors, and when he refracted light through a prism he was presented with the familiar colors of the rainbow: red, orange, yellow, green, cyan (light blue), indigo (dark blue) and violet. Newtonian principles are still used today.

Thomas Young (1773–1829) took Newton's studies one step further and realized that just three of the colors in the rainbow make up white light: red, green and blue. These three colors are the original primary colors. In 1855 the German physiologist Hermann Von Helmholtz (1821–1894) built on Young's work and developed the theory that our eyes read color in terms of light, red, green and blue. This theory was widely accepted and showed that every object is "coded" or broken down by the brain into various percentages of red, green and blue, which is how we see color.

Hering's color wheel

On this wheel, yellow is the fourth "primary" color. Ewald Hering (1834–1918) opposed the teachings of Helmholtz, believing that his chart gave a truer indication of the human experience of color. He argued that yellow ought to be a primary color because it is seen by the eye as an individual color, along with red, green and blue. He also included black and white as basic visual primary colors. Hering described his order of colors as "the natural system of color sensations." Today his system forms the basis of the N.C.S., the Natural Color System, which is used all over the world as a color matching tool.

The diagram shows a four-color primary wheel, developed in 1878 by a German physiologist, Ewald Hering.

HARMONIOUS COLORS

The four "primary" colors are red, blue, green and yellow. When these pure colors are mixed, the secondary colors of purple, turquoise, orange and lime are produced. As you move around the wheel you can immediately see the harmonies between the colors that are adjacent to each other. For instance, a palette made up of tones of yellow, lemon, marigold and terra-cotta will always be successful. These colors all originate from between yellow and orange on the color wheel and they have an intrinsic harmony with each other.

COMPLEMENTARY COLORS

Colors that sit opposite each other on the color wheel are called "complementary." These are opposing colors that vibrate against each other, or clash. Often you will use two complementary colors together in a scheme, but sometimes the clever use of a complementary color in a room can have a striking effect. For instance, a bright turquoise chair against a soft orange-peach wall would look wonderful.

COLOR AND MOOD

Looking at light

Most of us do not usually consider the effects of light when decorating our house. Yet light can be the single most important element in making a scheme work. Living so much of our lives in artificial light, we often forget about the effects of changing light throughout the day, and how the passing of the seasons affects the way we see color.

Light coming in Natural light keeps the world alive and you should take full advantage of it. Try to maximize the amount of daylight in your home with as many windows and skylights as possible. Make the most of strong summer sunlight by using the lightest, most diaphanous drapes at the windows in a bedroom or kitchen, which will let the wonderful light flood in. If an existing conservatory has dark, solid glass roof, consider replacing it with a lightweight glass roof, which will let a different light through. Alternatively, use a block of bold color, such as geranium pink, on a wall opposite the window to change the atmosphere of the area. It is often impossible to change the aspect of a room, but clever use of color and light can create wonderful effects and make the most of what you have.

Make the most of natural light with large windows, glass paneled doors and pale colors on all the walls.

When you have a room where you particularly want to maximize the natural light that comes into it, find out how, during the day, the light is and spend some time at the room at different times of day, taking note of how the light affects it. For instance, if a room is in northeast to the northeast, hemisphere, it will become the least or most natural light, so always use warming colors in a room to soften the shadows. If a bathroom has a large window and receives lots of natural light for most of the day, there is plenty of cool blues and violets to create a fresh, new look.

Remember that at different times of the year, a room can take on different personalities. Just as the garden dies off in the fall, so too does the house become darker, curtains are closed earlier and more artificial lighting is used. You may wish to choose a scheme that works as well in daylight as in artificial light, such as warm neutrals or softer colors. Create a warm, cozy look in the dark winter months by simply changing bedspreads and cushions from crisp cotton to brushed flannels, velvets or fake fur. Place rugs or sheepskins on any bare flooring and drape soft, richly colored blankets on the backs of chairs and sofas.

Create a cozy atmosphere in a dark room with the use of soft lighting and warming colors like reds and oranges.

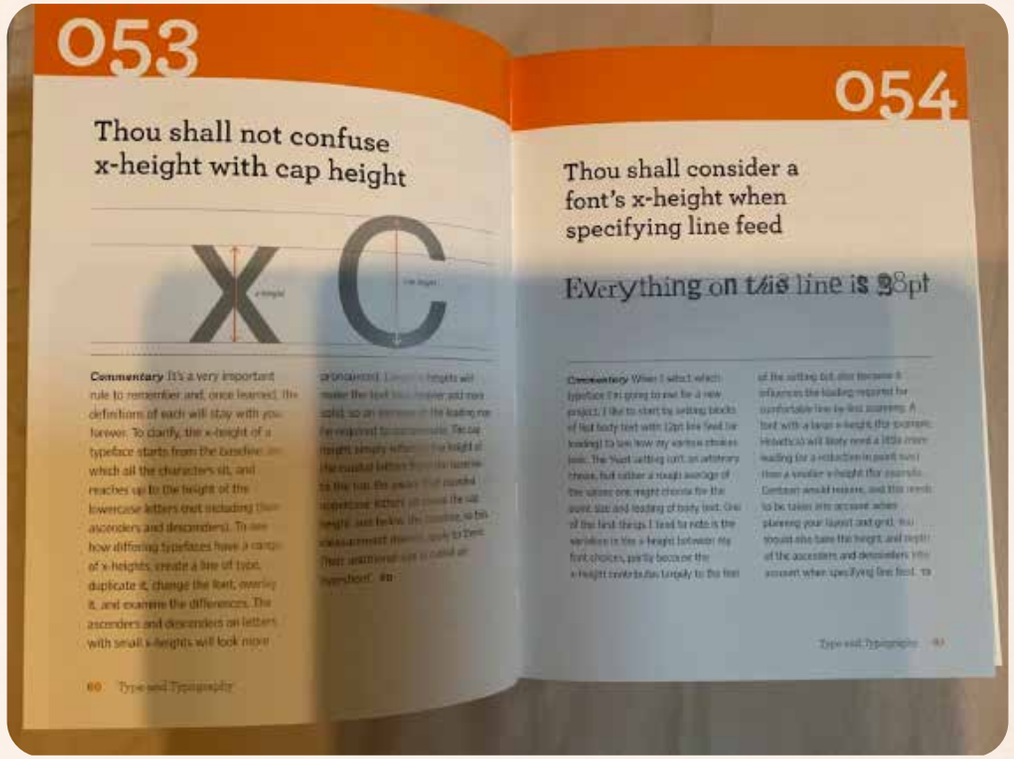

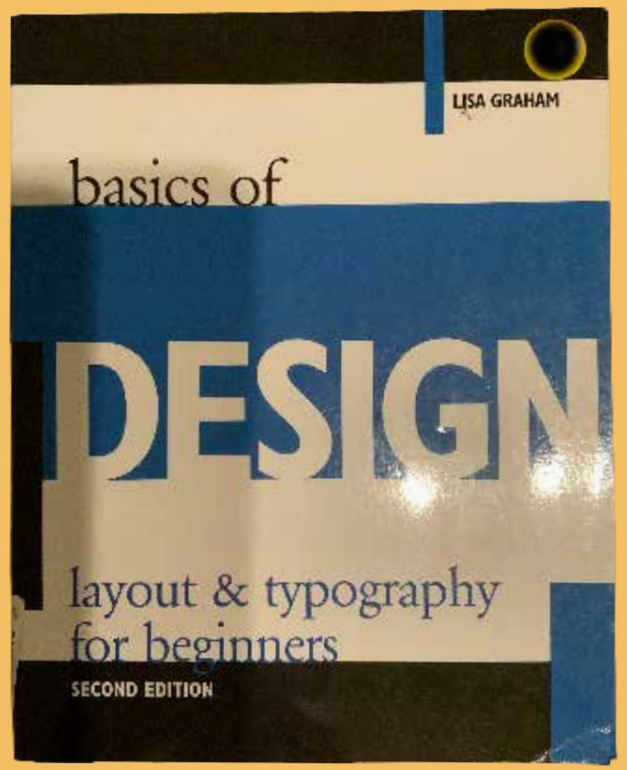

Graphic Design Rules

by Timothy Samara

“Ask any graphic designer the world over about their preferred approach to setting type, choosing a color, or beggining a new layout, and you will rarely get exactly the same answer twice. Every creative has their own individulal approach, or more importantly their own combinations of the thousands of techniques one can apply when planning a new design project. But there are some dos and don’ts that always figure strongly in any heated debate about what should or should not accept as the right way to create the best graphic design.

NOTE

Not all professional designers are driven through the ability to draw is definitely an advantage. The flexibility and power of today's software offer just about anyone the tools to create interesting visuals. What is a more important skill than drawing is the ability to think visually and to know what the design principles are and how to apply them.

a story or showing complex and detailed information that is often very difficult to show in any other way. An illustration, for instance, can easily show the key components of an atom. In fact, illustrations are often the only effective way to visually show ideas or abstract concepts.

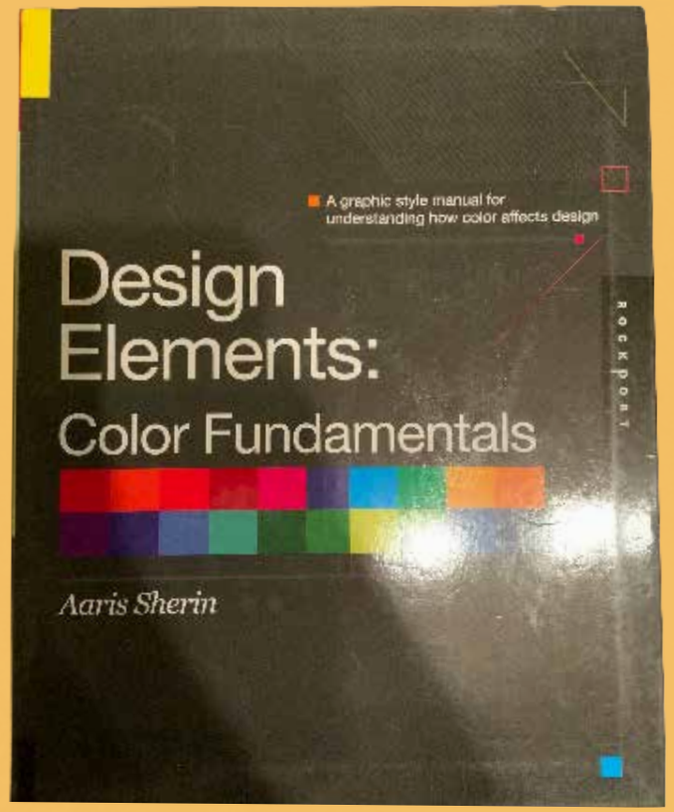

Illustrations can be humorous, expressive, formal, or serious. Much like type or the illustration in the tone of voice you determine with humorous text or true illustrations with serious text and so on. Determining the tone of the page design you'll need to completely understand the concepts and text involved. Of course, if you wrote the text you likely already know what the tone of the piece is, but if someone presented you with the project you'll have to do a little reading and ask questions. Understanding the entire concept and focus of the text will help you choose an effective illustration (or you won't have to worry a lot of your time researching content and unnecessary details).

some likely sources of illustration are (1) yourself, armed with paper, pen, and/or computer software, (2) a talented local kid who is ready behind for pizza, (3) professional illustrators, (4) clip art books or CDs. Clip art illustrations are predrawn, generally copyright free, ready-to-use illustrations, and sold on disk or CD-ROMs. They can be a tremendous time saver.

by Antonis Tsagaris

“Learn the 5 basic skills that will have you creating icons, logos, illustrations and UI in minutes.
In this book he shows you easy methos for crating the vector graphics you never though you would be able to.”

Gradients
Finally, let's talk about gradients. A gradient refers to the (usually) smooth transition of one color into another. Although a more correct but less practical definition would be color variance based on position. On our "Funky" badge above, the center of the stroke was a bit too empty and plain, so I used a radial gradient as the fill of the circle. Here is the result:
Funky!
As you can see, the central part of the fill is white but it fades into a warm orange as it moves outwards toward the circumference of the circle.
Shortly after the 80s, gradients fell out of fashion faster than [illegible] but they've made a (welcome, in my opinion) return lately, as the high-res displays we're using these days make them look much smoother and less horribly dithered.
There are three main types of gradient:
- Linear gradient: the color changes across a straight line
- Radial gradient: the color changes across the radius of a circle
- Angular gradient: the color changes following the rotation of the radius of a circle
This explains it more clearly:
Linear Gradient
Radial Gradient
Angular Gradient
In the case of a linear gradient, you can change the direction of the gradient by rotating a helpful affordance that appears whenever you apply the gradient.

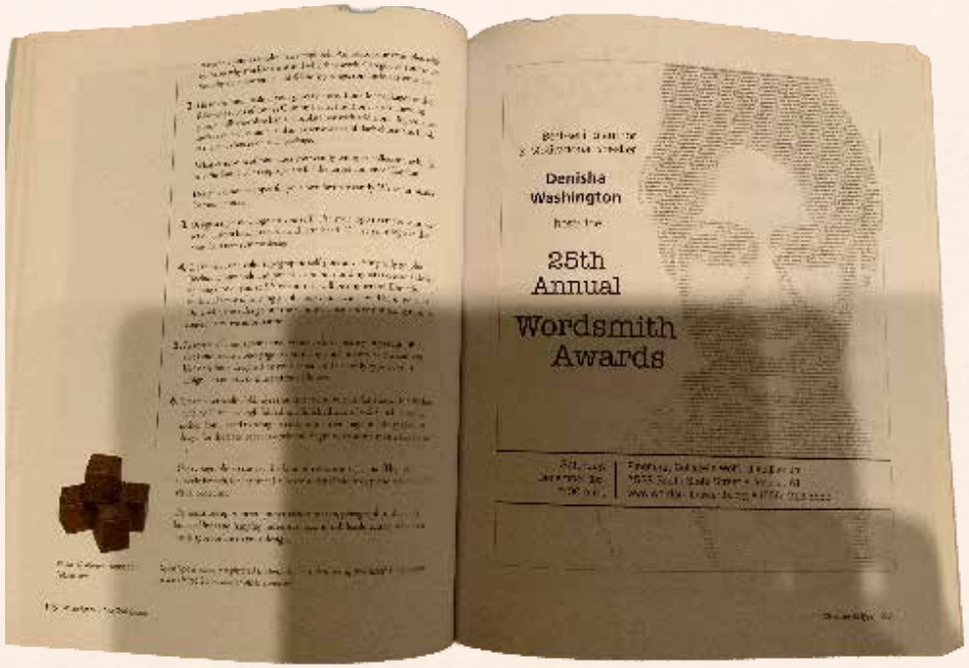

Performing boolean operations
Now select both shapes (either by holding down Shift and clicking the first and then on the second shape or by drawing a rectangle that contains both shapes with your selection tool).
After you've selected both objects, they will be highlighted by a bounding box. The bounding box is a rectangle that surrounds the selection and allows you to perform operations such as resizing, rotation, etc. on the selected objects. More on this box in the chapter on Transformations. Here's what the selection and its bounding box should look like:

Layout For Graphic Designers

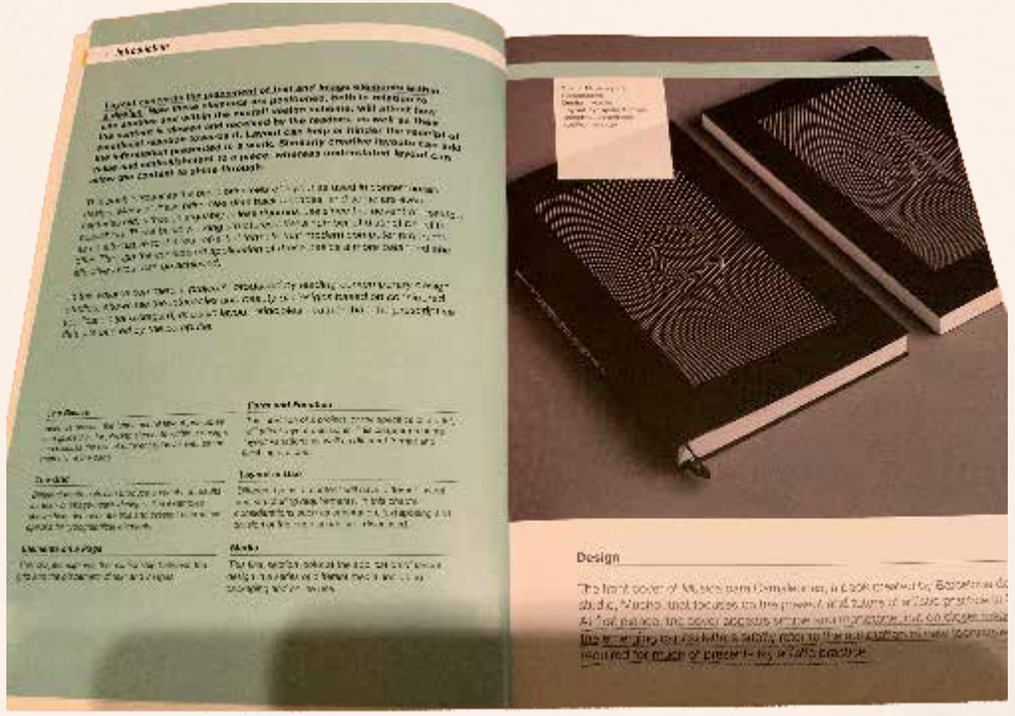

by Gavin Ambrose, Paul Harris
(third edition)

“Layout for graphic design concerns the arrangment of text and images on a page. How these elements are positioned, both in relation to one another, and within the overall design scheme, will afect how content is viewed and received. Whether in print or online, it is key to powerful visual communication.”

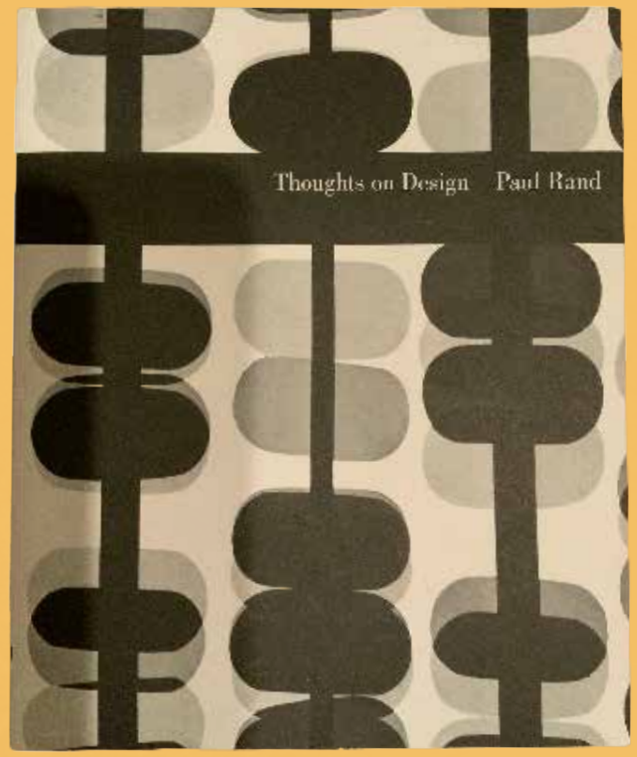

Imposition

Imposition describes the arrangement (sequence and position) of pages as they will appear when printed, before being cut, folded and trimmed. Knowledge of how a publication is physically put together is important before beginning page layout.

Thoughts on Design

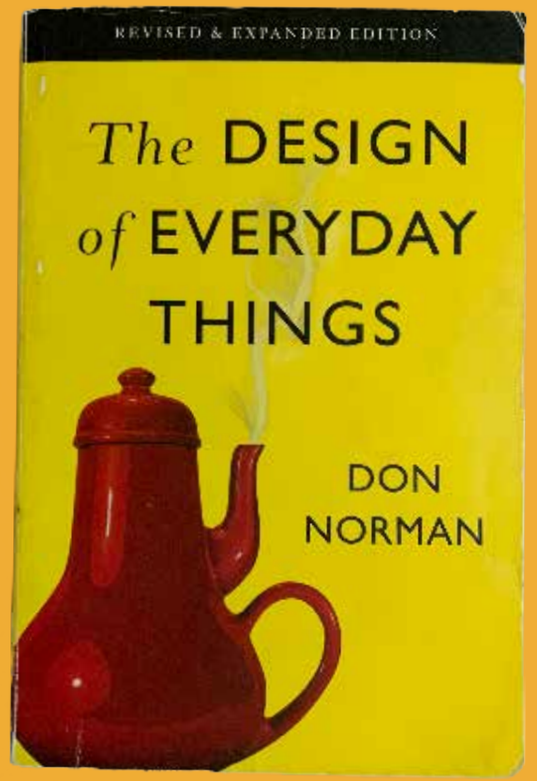

by Paul Rand

“As relevant today as when it was written, this classic text is a testament to the timeless values of exceptional design.”

Paul Rand said:
“Graphic design ...
is not good design
if it does not co-operate
as an instument
in the service of comunnication.”

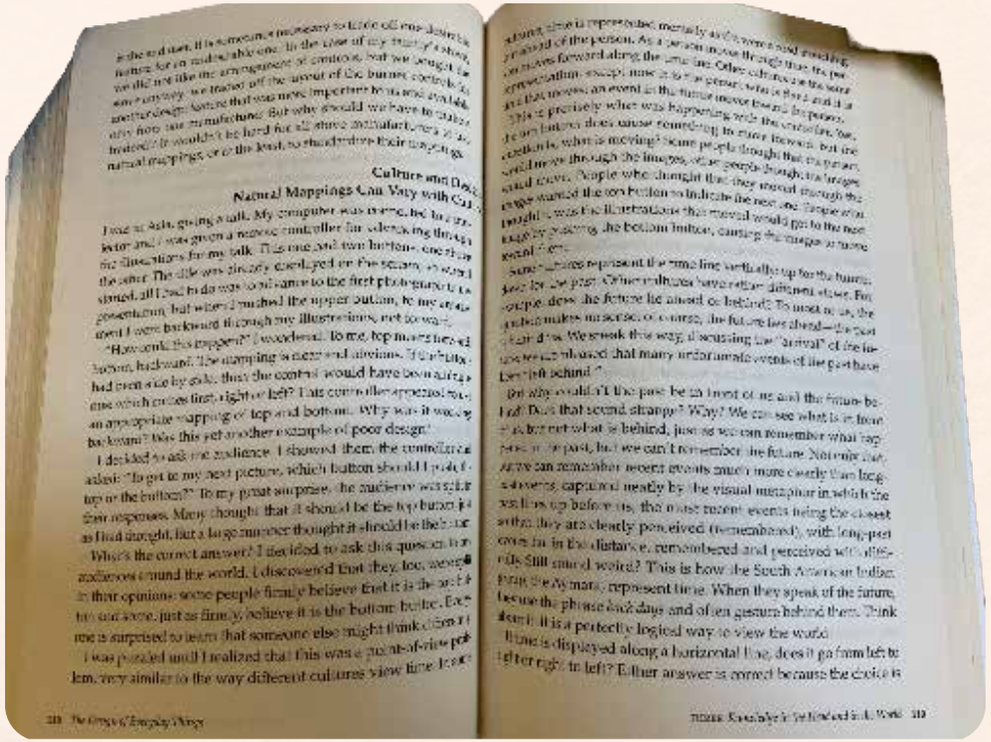

The Design of Everyday Things

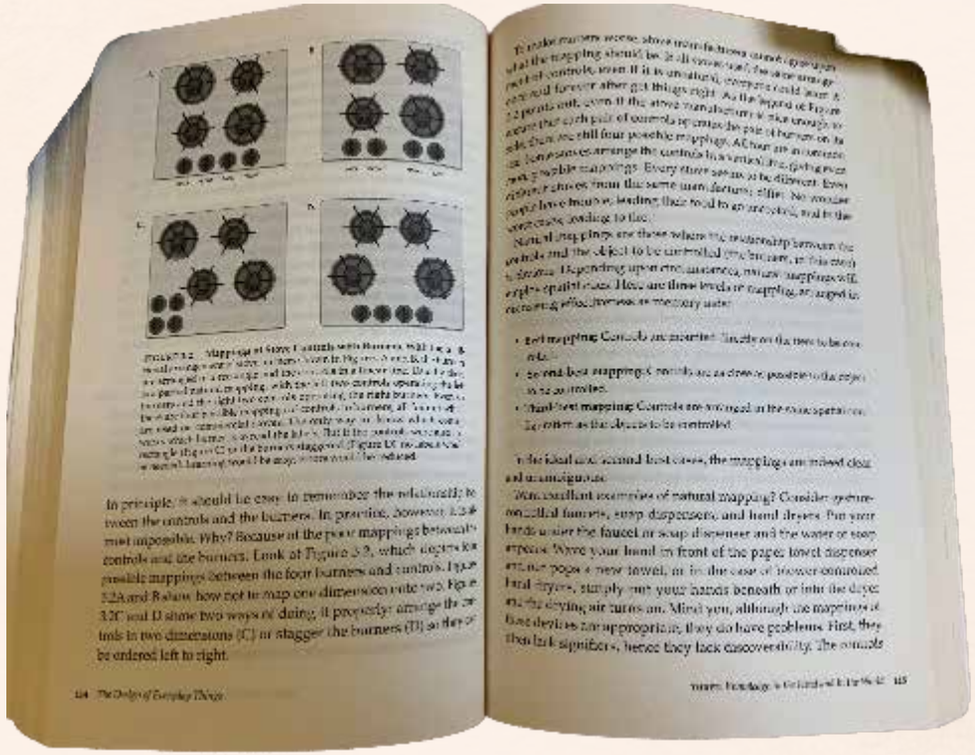

by Don Norman

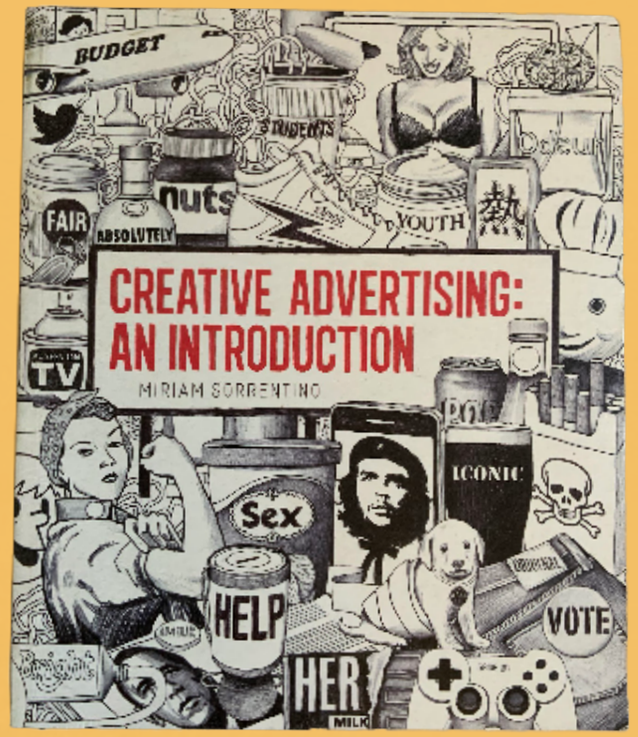

“This book is a powerful appeal for good design, and a reminder of how- and why - some products satisfy white others only disapoint.”

WHAT IS GRAPHIC DESIGN?

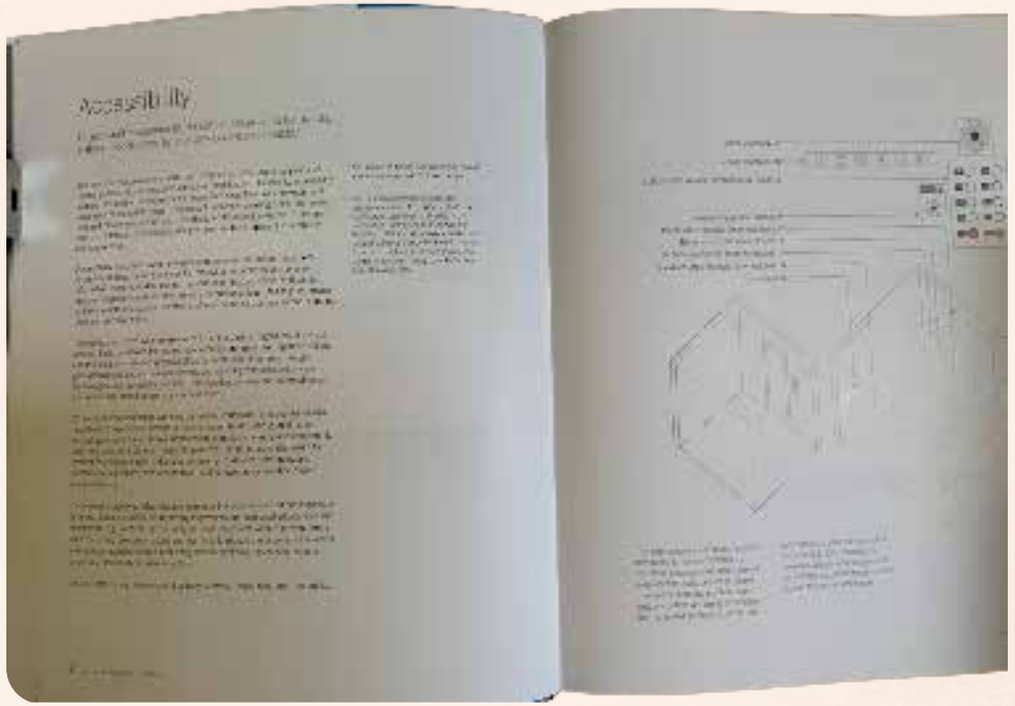

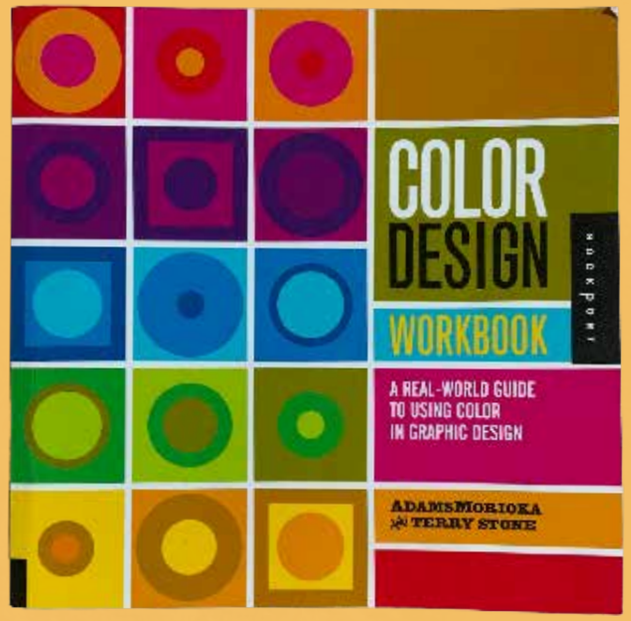

Universal Principles of Design

by William Lidwell, Kritina Holder, Jill Butler

“This book provides the first one-stop reference and resource for designers of all disciples.”

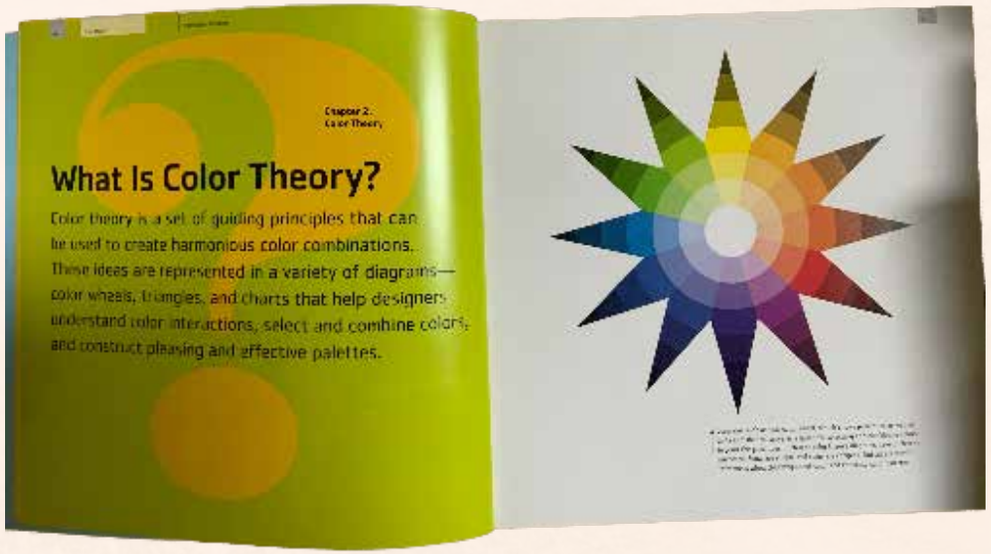

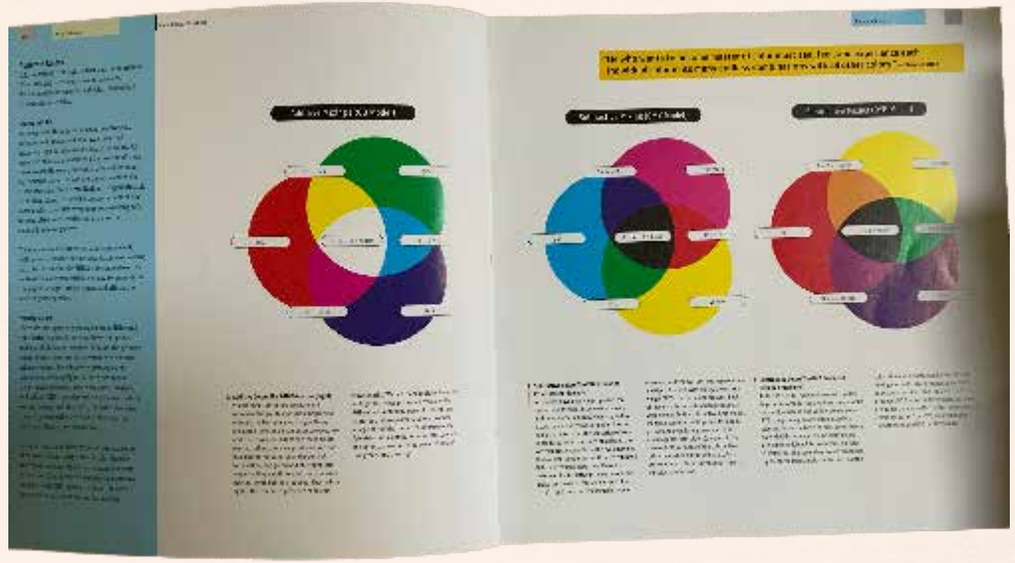

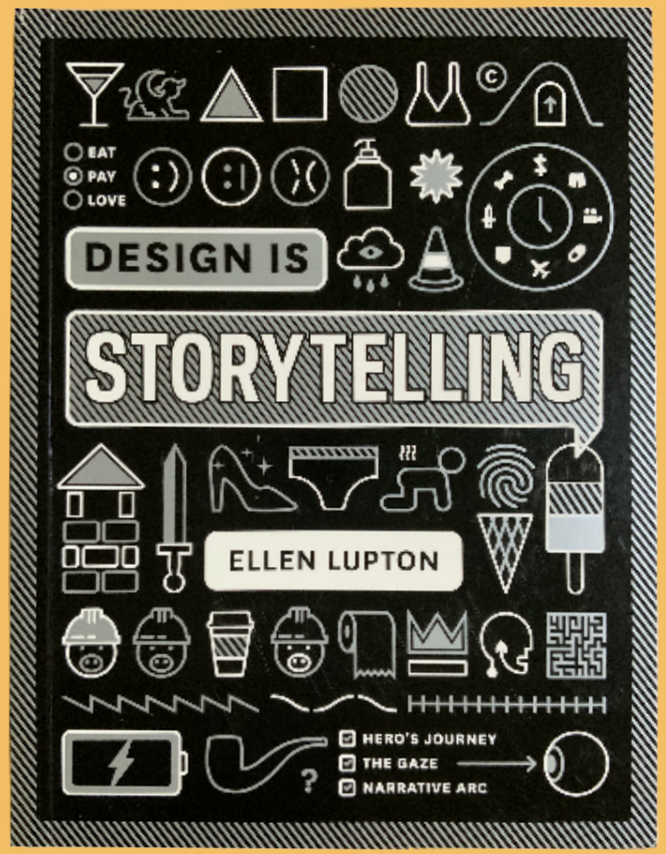

Color Design Workbook

by Adams Morioka & Terry Stone

“This book invites readers to explore color through the language of professionals. It supplies tips on how to talk to clients about color and using color in presentations. “

Chapter 2:
Color Theory
What Is Color Theory?
Color theory is a set of guiding principles that can be used to create harmonious color combinations. These ideas are represented in a variety of diagrams—color wheels, triangles, and charts that help designers understand color interactions, select and combine colors, and construct pleasing and effective palettes.

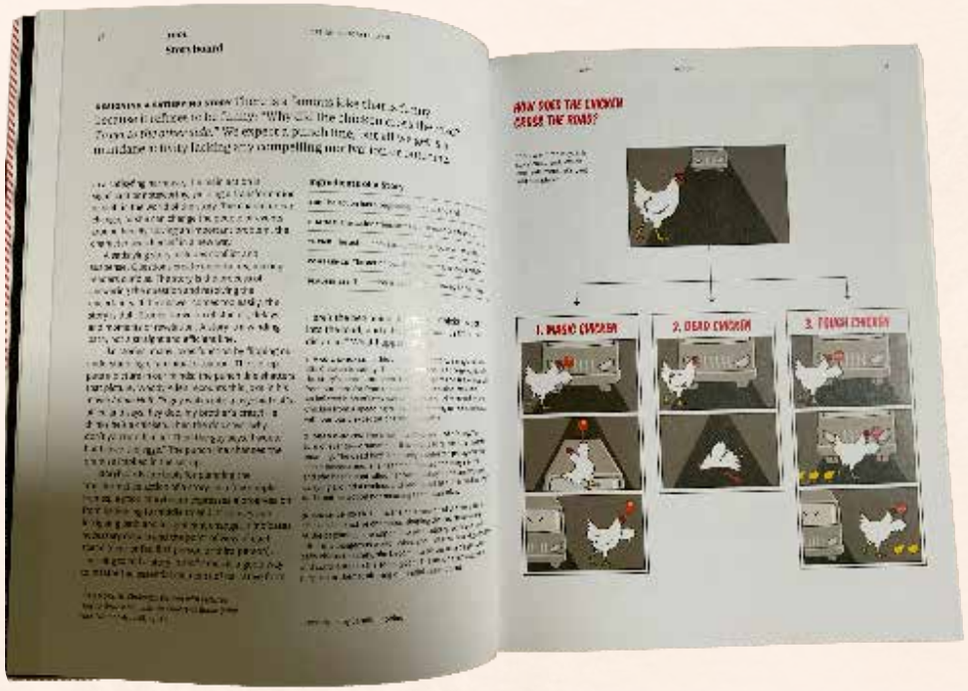

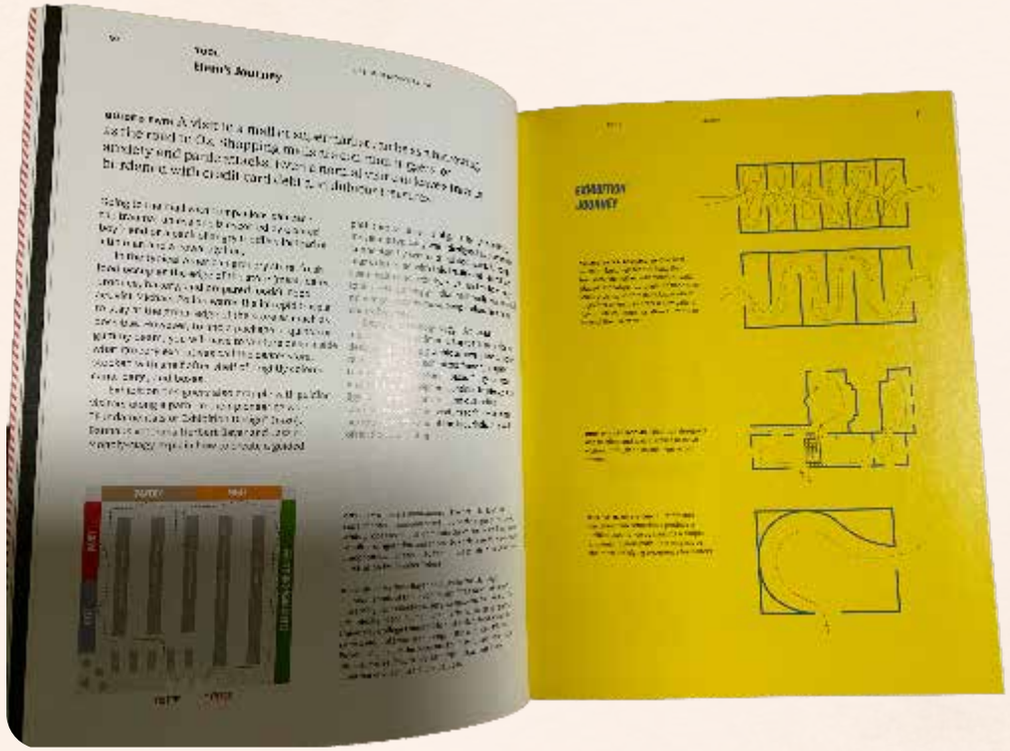

Design is Storytelling

by Ellen Lupton

“This bookis is a playbook for creative tinking, showing designers how to use narrative techniques to create satisfying graphics, products, services, and experiences.”

IDEAS FOR INSPIRATION part 2

Have you been to an antic shop?
If you haven't you are missing out.

I started going the last couple years and I am amazed from some of the stuff I see there.
Especially, when it comes to graphic design, I think it should be a lesson in the design classes just about antics. We can learn so much. The soft colors, the playful advertisements, the bold typography...so many unique characteristics.

IDEAS FOR INSPIRATION part 3

I love to travel.
I try to go at least once a year to a different place.
I like to explore different places, different cultures and talk to local people about many things.

I always find something new and interesting in every place. I wish I can afford and have the time to go to different places (even small villages) and take videos with local stories , recipes and visiting small businesses exploring the obstacles they have been trough and the success they have achieved.

I love to take pictures of things that normally other people would not even look at but I find beauty in even small and unusual things.

I think I can use some of them in a projects - use some elements of them, maybe a background or for creating a mood board or collage.

"So What?"

Bringing Art and Science Together
Linda Eaton
began her museum career as a textile conservator trained in London at the Courtauld Institute of Art and the Textile Conservation Centre. Before coming to Winterthur as Head of the Textile Lab in 1990, she worked at the National Museums of Scotland. One field was not enough to contain her boundless curiosity, and she moved into her role as Winterthur's Curator of Textiles in 2000. Her conservation and scientific training continually informed her curatorial practice. She embraced dye analysis to understand American printing and linen stamping. Her long interest in researching fakes and forgeries resulted in two separate exhibitions at Winterthur. Linda encouraged collegial cross-disciplinary projects and acquisitions.

In her more than thirty years as a curator and conservator at Winterthur,
Linda Eaton (1948-2021)
inspired those around her to question accepted wisdom, to defy convention, and to find joy in looking closely. She invited people to join her in the art of connoisseurship, whether the object was a donut, a quilt, or a fake. She asked her students the same question she applied to her own work—"So what?"—because she knew that considering why things mattered connected the past to the present. She had a vision for Winterthur. The objects shown here provide a small sampling of the range and breadth of her impact on Winterthur and on textile history.

REVOLUTION
À LA MODE
Fashion and Music in Revolutionary France
In August 1789, French revolutionaries abolished feudalism and enacted the Declaration of the Rights of Man and of the Citizen. Control of property and institutions, including the press, was now in the hands of the people, not the king. With these new freedoms, public commentary on the birth of France's new democracy flourished—informed, amplified, and documented by the arts.
Featured here are highlights from Mus's remarkable collection of illustrated periodicals produced before and during the French Revolution. They are among the earliest modern fashion and lifestyle magazines—issued twice a month at first, then every ten days in keeping with the pace of cultural change—and vividly demonstrate how fashion, theater, music, and the decorative arts shaped the political realities of this tumultuous moment.
Jean-Antoine Brun (or Lebrun-Tossa), a cultural critic and playwright, produced two of the publications, Cabinet des Modes (1785–1786) and Magasin des Modes Nouvelles (1786–1789), with an editorial team before becoming sole editor of the Journal de la Mode et du Goût (1790–1792). All of them featured the work of designers, musicians, and performers—many of them women—for a large readership. Though women remained less than equal in France under its law and new national motto—"Liberté! Egalité! Fraternité!"—these publications reveal their acute engagement with politics through the arts.

IDEAS FOR INSPIRATION

part 4

I always have been wondering how a designer decide to create a book cover. What is the path from reading the book and deciding what is the most important thing that needs to go on the cover, or what exactly is the image and the typography that will represent the book best.

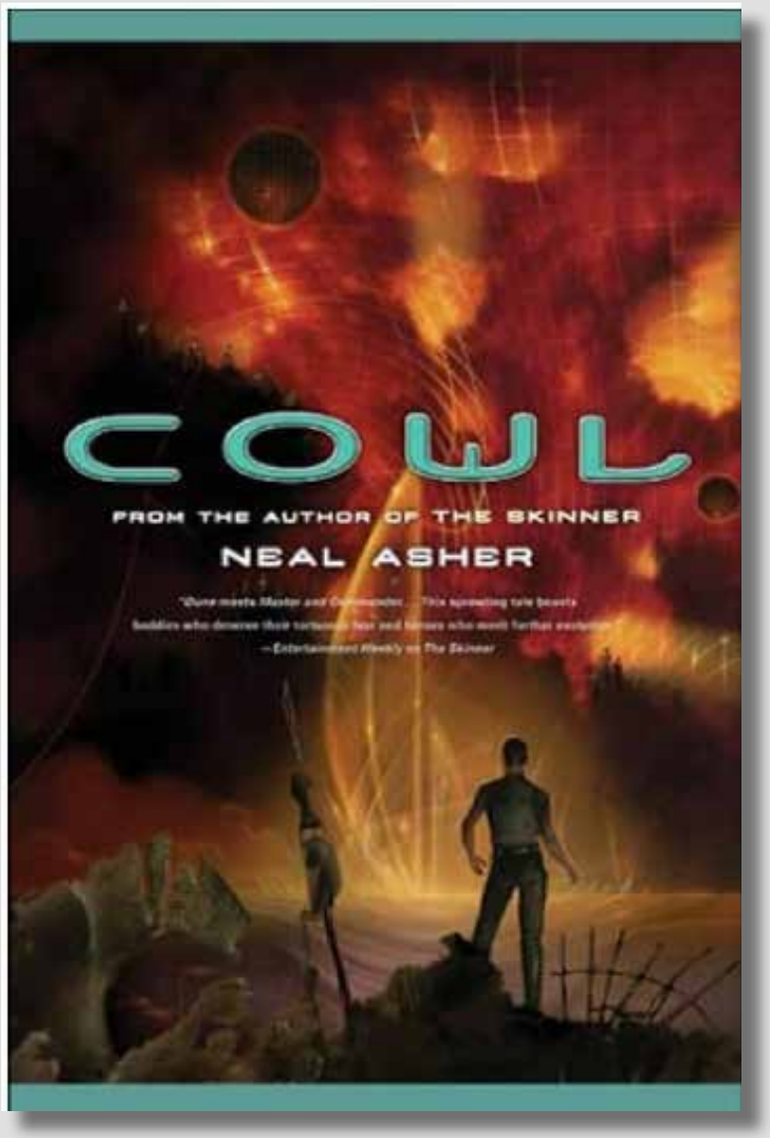

I used to enjoy reading the short summaries and then look at the book, thinking of the process that was going on in the designer's mind.

I think this is a great lesson for people interesting in creating book covers and this document actually needs to include many more titles.

BOOK COVERS

COWL

by Neal Asher

"An excellent read," this sci-fi fantasy features a genetically modified superman who travels back in time to prey on humans from the past (Publishers Weekly).

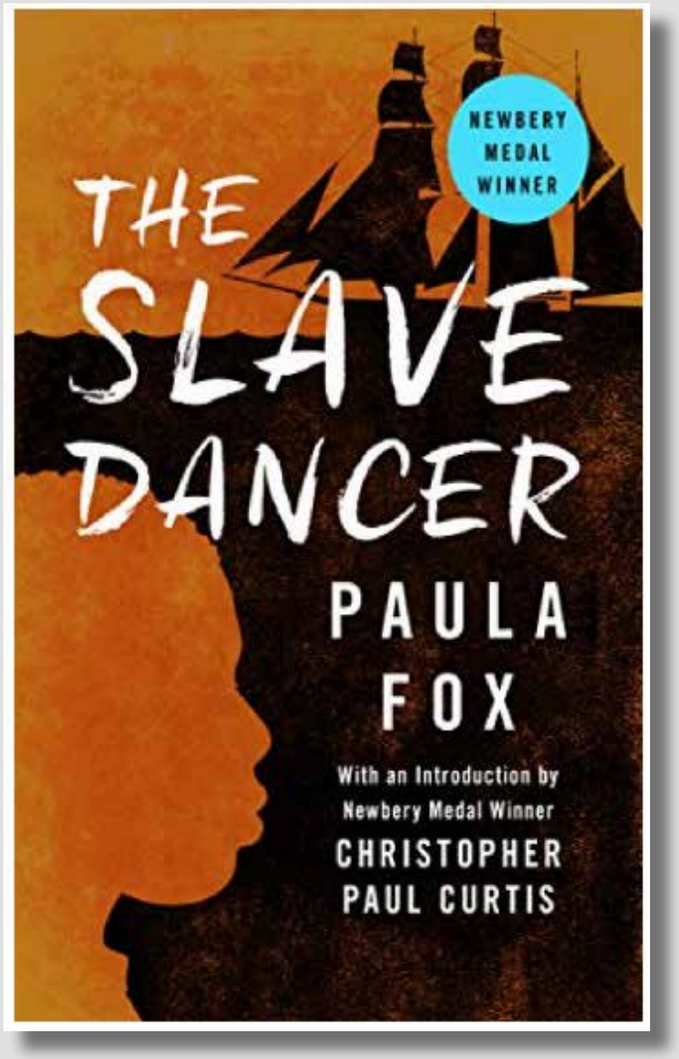

THE TELOMERE EFFECT

by Elizabeth Blackburn, Elissa Epel

The New York Times bestselling book coauthored by the Nobel Prize winner who discovered telomerase and telomeres' role in the aging process and the health psychologist who has done original research into how specific lifestyle and psychological habits can protect telomeres, slowing disease and improving life.

Have you wondered why some sixty-year-olds look and feel like forty-year-olds and why some forty-year-olds look and feel like sixty-year-olds? While many factors contribute to aging and illness, Dr. Elizabeth Blackburn discovered a biological indicator called telomerase, the enzyme that replenishes telomeres, which protect our genetic heritage.

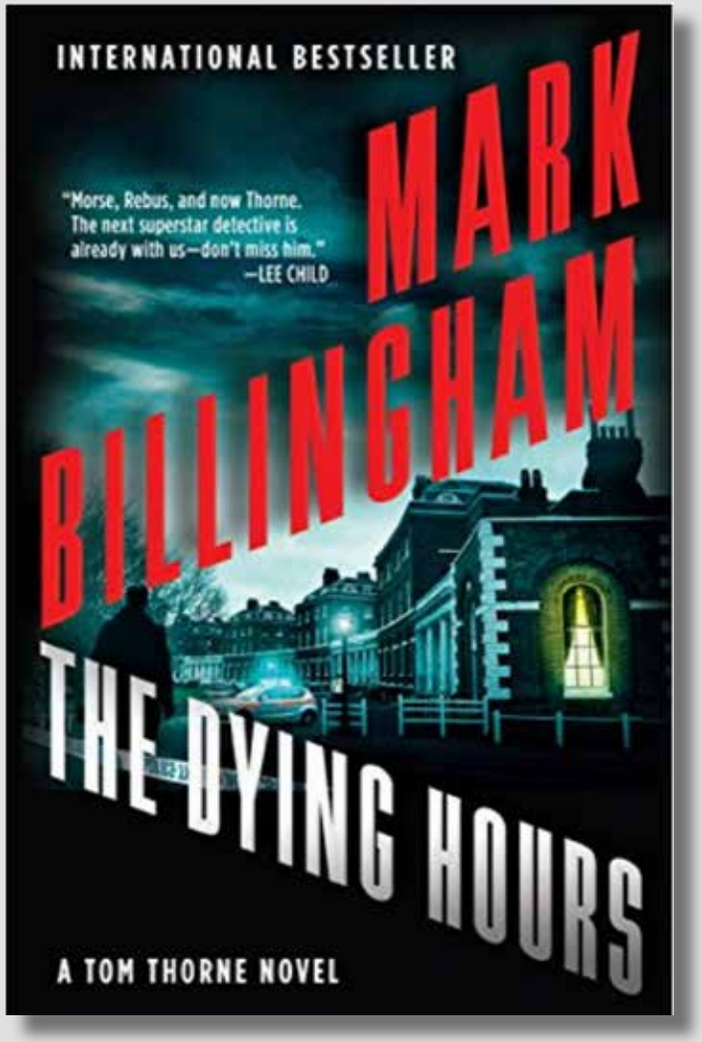

Dr. Blackburn and Dr. Elissa Epel's research shows that the length and health of one's telomeres are a biological underpinning of the long-hypothesized mind-body connection

THE SLAVE DANCER

by Paula Fox, Christopher Paul Curtis

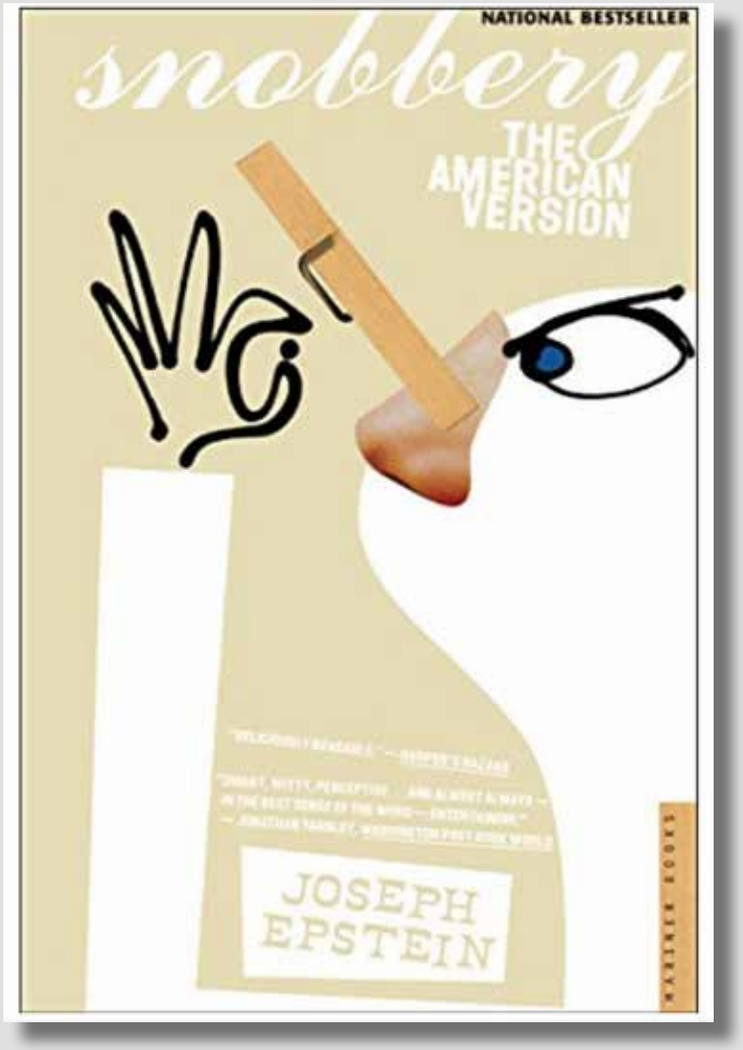

Newbery Medal Winner: A young Louisiana boy faces the horrors of slavery when he is kidnapped and forced to work on a slave ship in this iconic novel.

THE DYING HOURS

by Mark Billingham

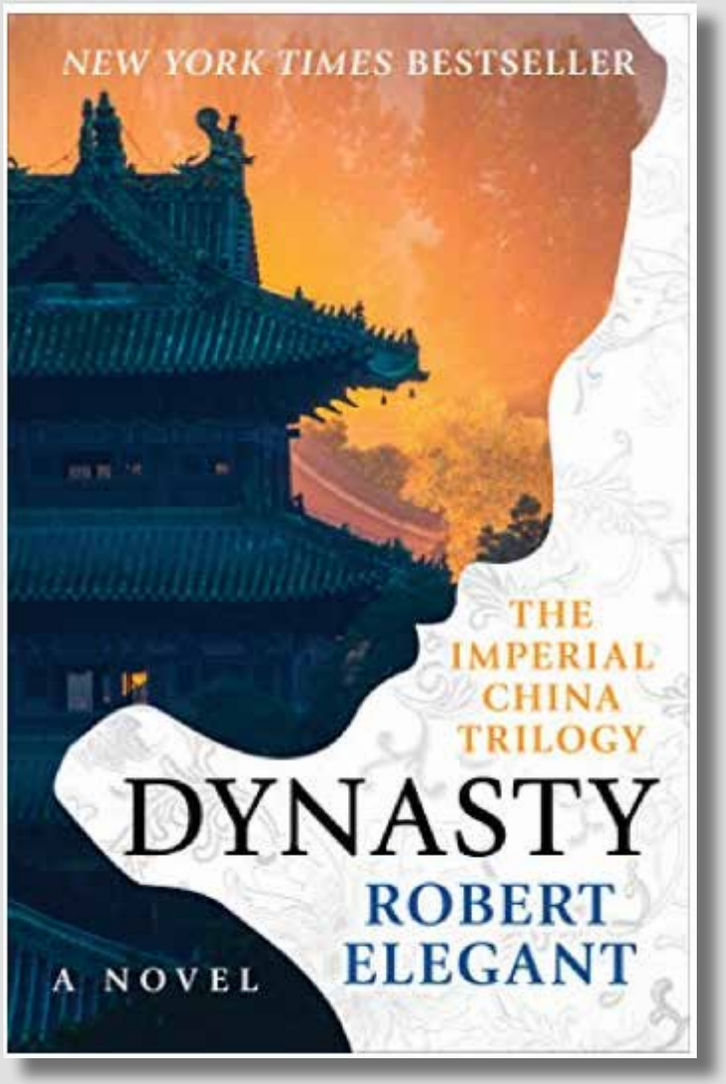

"The next superstar detective" is back to stop a serial killer with a bizarre pattern—his victims are all taking their own lives (Lee Child).

SNOBBERY

by Joseph Epstein

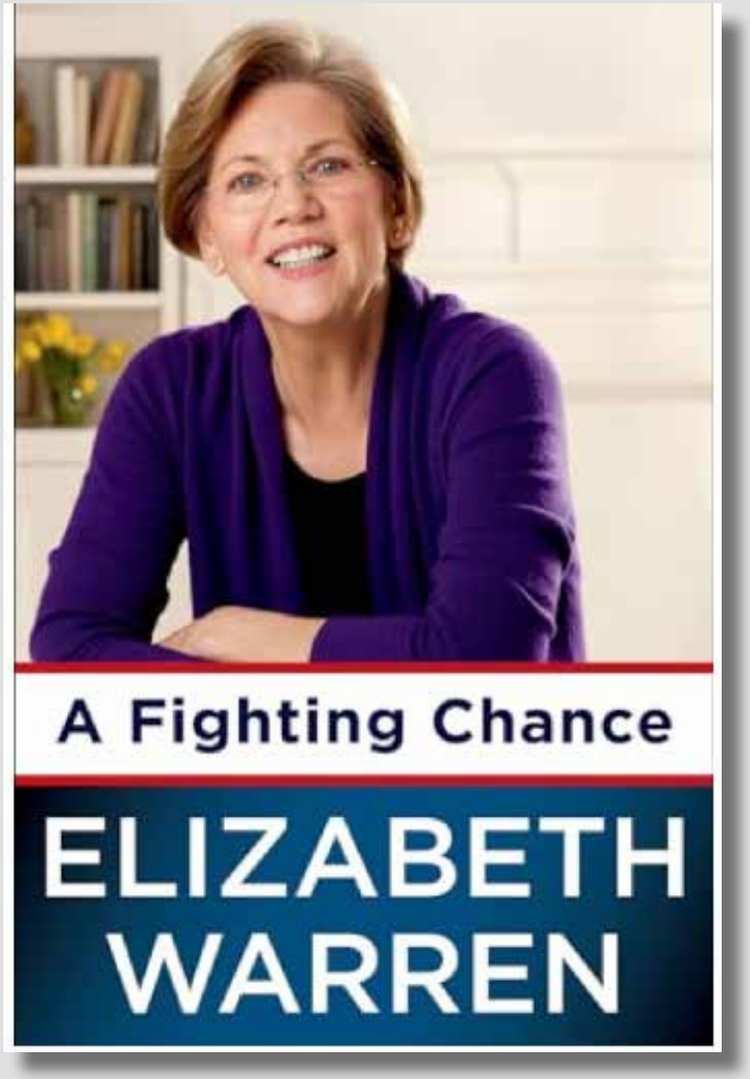

Observations on the many ways we manage to look down on others, from “a writer who can make you laugh out loud on every third page”
(The New York Times Book Review).

DYNASTY

by Robert Elegant

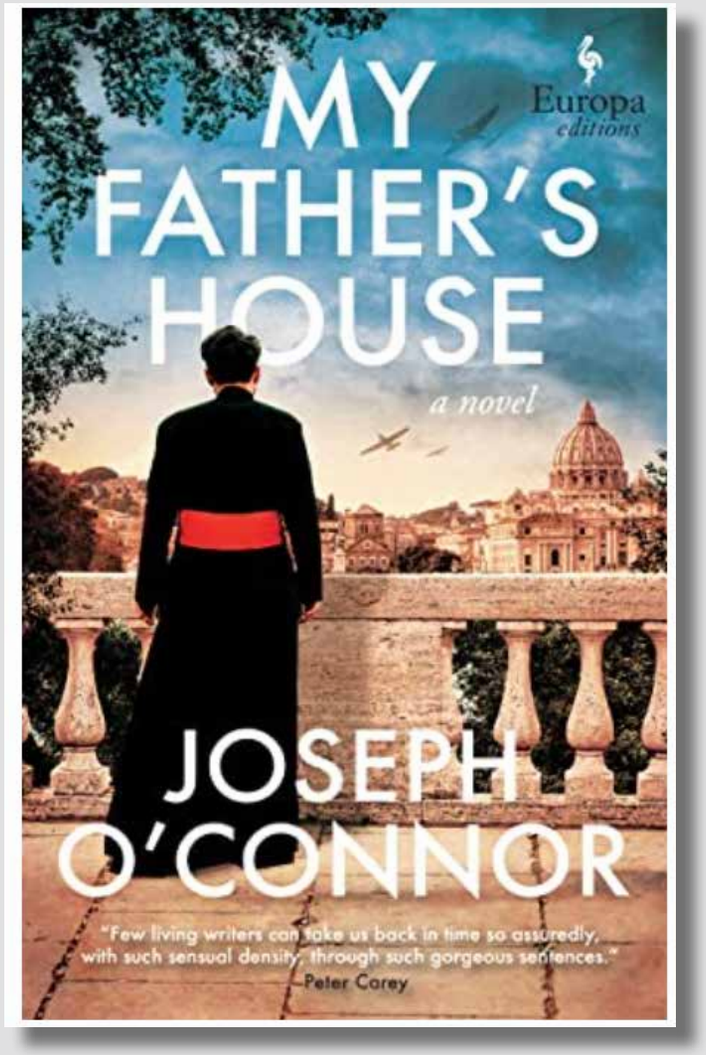

New York Times Bestseller: An epic of love and adultery, money and power, set amid the revolutionary turbulence of twentieth-century China, from the author of Manchu and Mandarin.

A FIGHTING CHANCE

by Elizabeth Warren

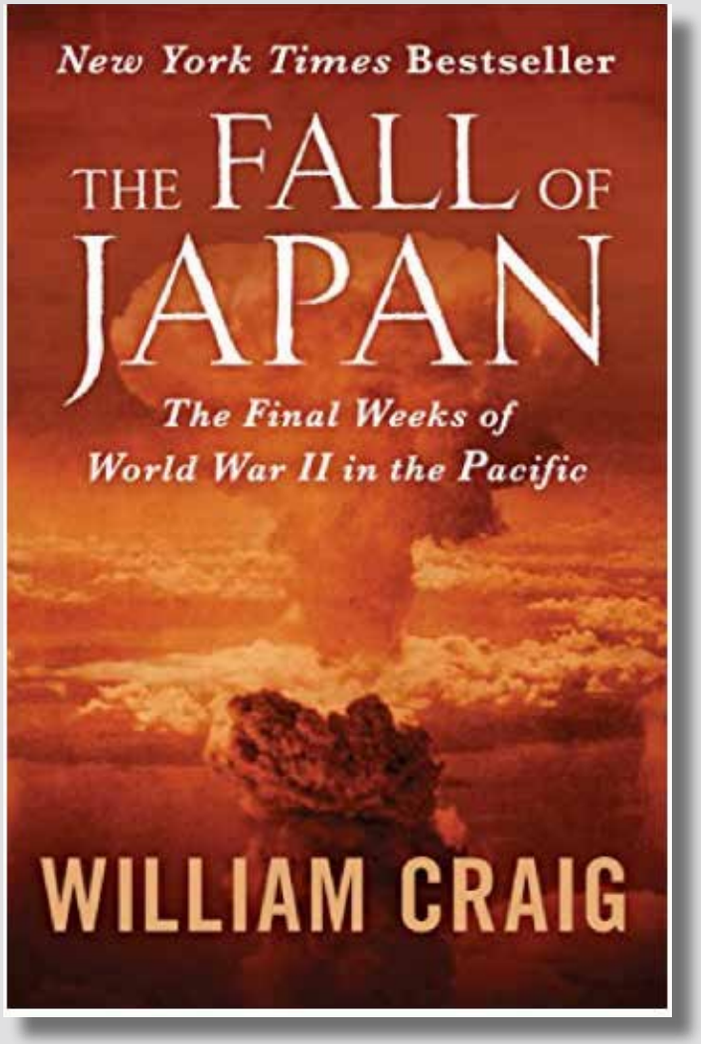

A NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER An unlikely political star tells the inspiring story of the two-decade journey that taught her how Washington really works—and really doesn't—in A Fighting Chance As a child in small-town Oklahoma, Elizabeth Warren yearned to go to college and then become an elementary school teacher—an ambitious goal, given her family's modest means. Early marriage and motherhood seemed to put even that dream out of reach, but fifteen years later she was a distinguished law professor with a deep understanding of why people go bankrupt.
Then came the phone call that changed her life: could she come to Washington DC to help advise Congress on rewriting the bankruptcy laws?

MY FATHER'S HOUSE

by Joseph O'Connor

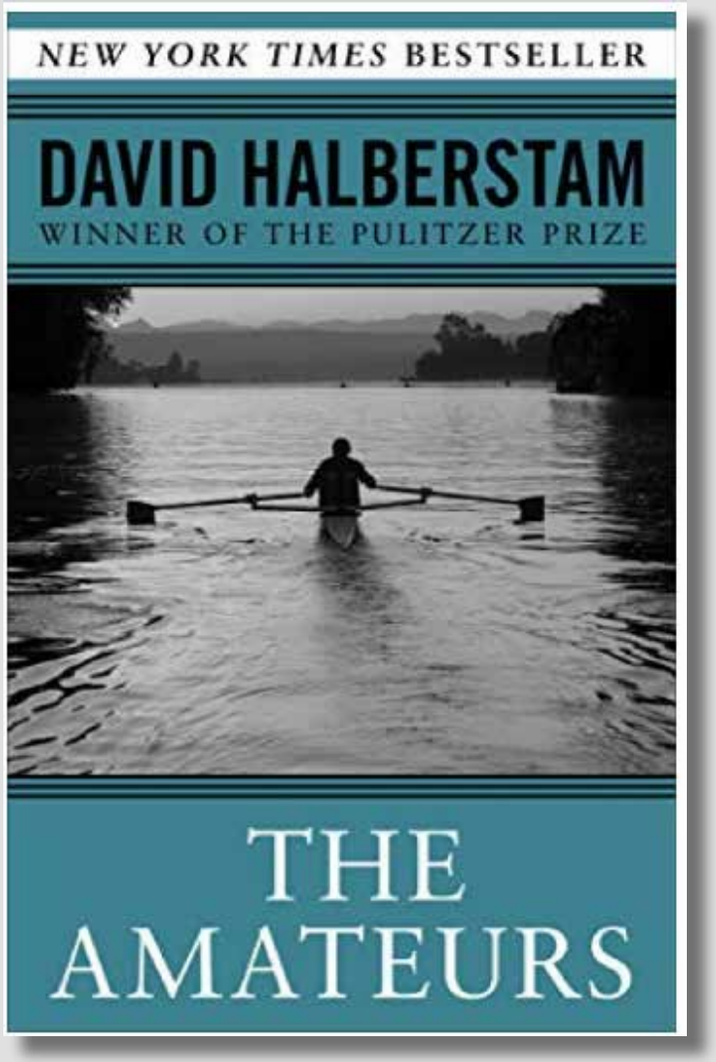

Based on the true WWII story of a daring attempt to smuggle thousands through the Vatican and out of occupied Rome right under the noses of Nazi occupiers.

THE FALL OF JAPAN

by William J. Craig

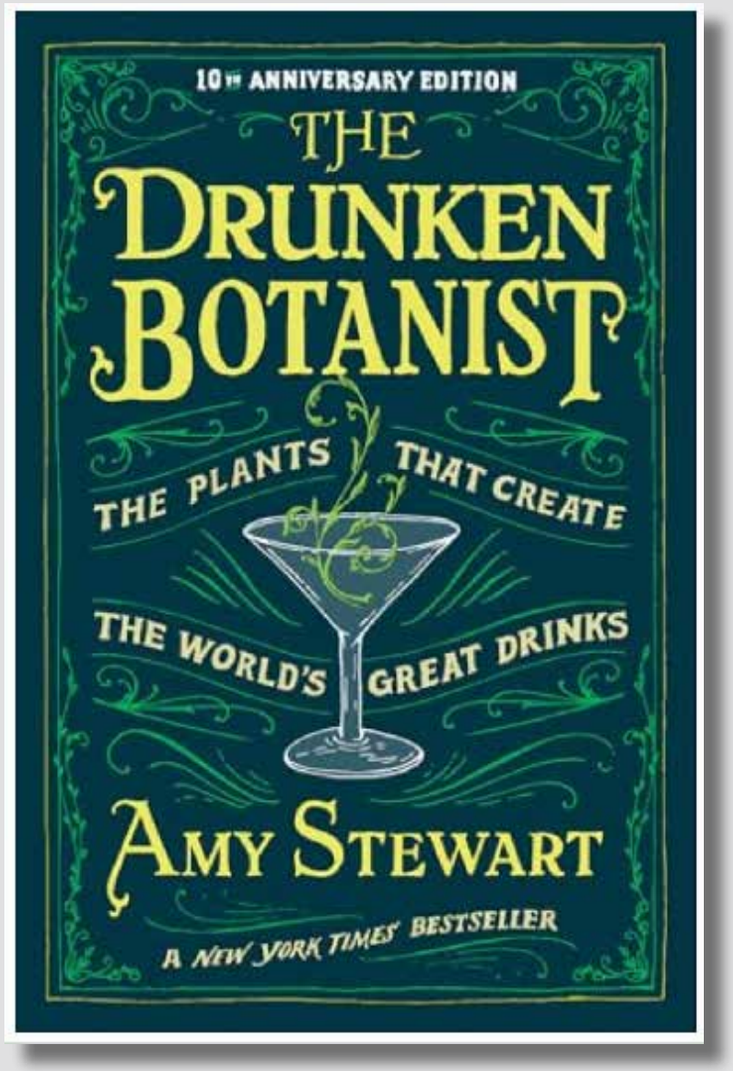

New York Times Bestseller: A “virtually faultless” account of the last weeks of WWII in the Pacific from both Japanese and American perspectives

THE AMATEURS

by David Halberstam

In "one of the best books ever written about a sport," Halberstam chronicles the story of four amateur US rowers and their 1984 Olympic dream (Newsweek).

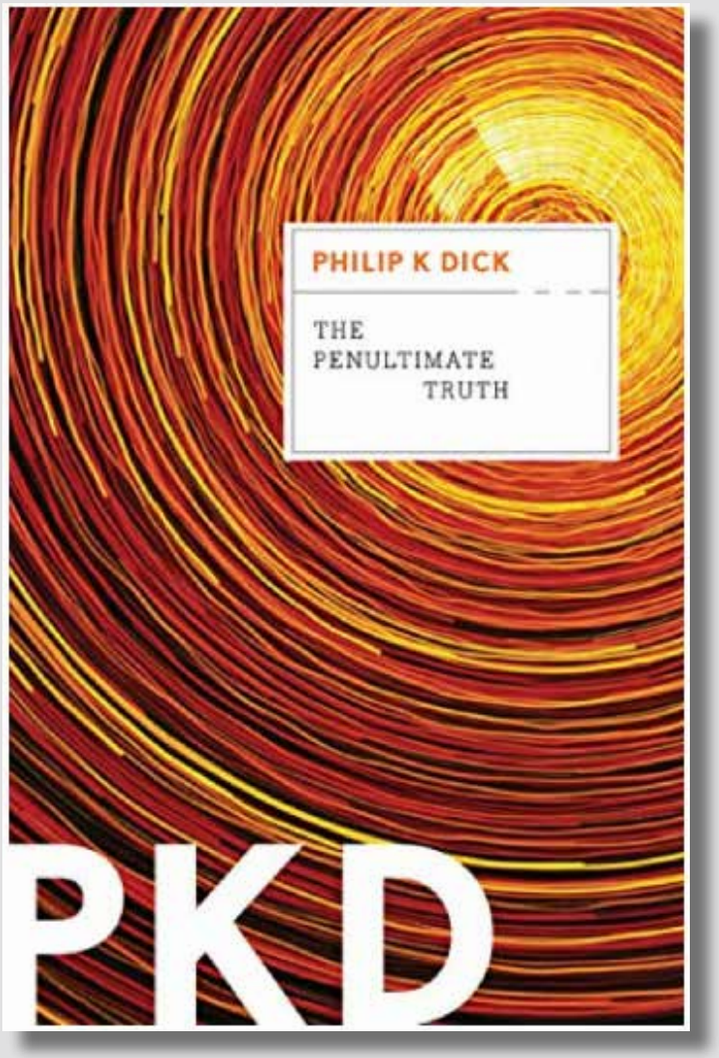

THE DRUNKEN BOTANIST

by Amy Stewart

The New York Times-bestselling guide to botany and booze celebrates its 10th anniversary with an updated edition—now including a guide to planting your very own cocktail garden to go with more than fifty drink recipes. This fascinating, go-to text about the plants that make our drinks is the ideal gift book for every cocktail aficionado, the perfect drinks book for every plant-lover.

Sake began with a grain of rice. Scotch emerged from barley, tequila from agave, rum from sugarcane, bourbon from corn. Thirsty yet?

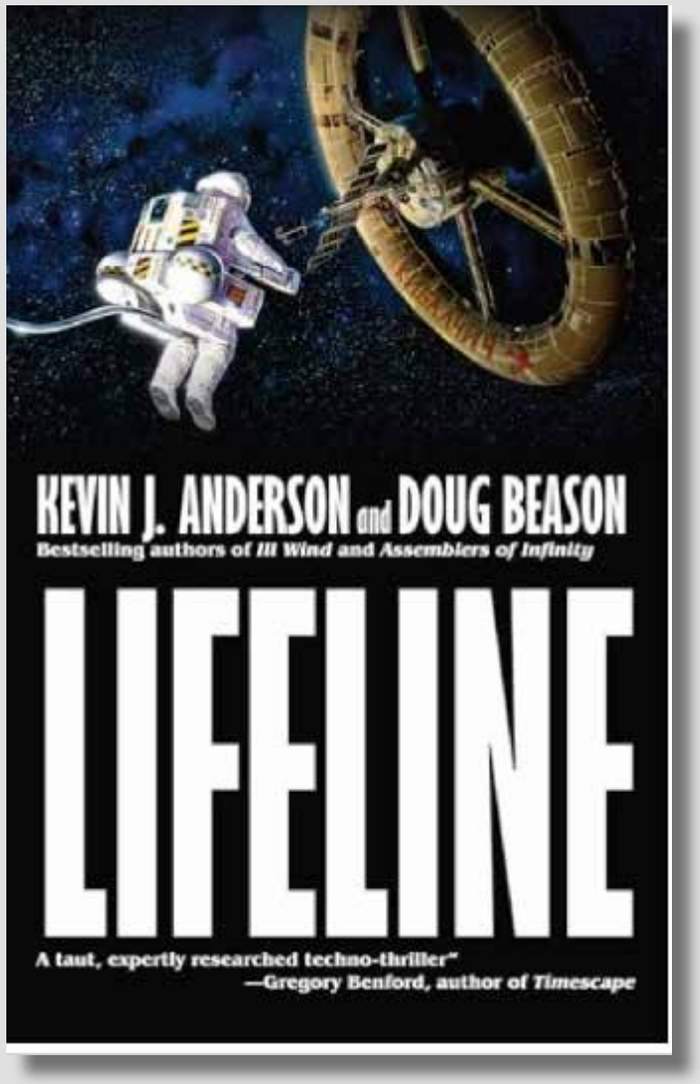

In The Drunken Botanist, Amy Stewart explores the dizzying array of herbs, flowers, trees, fruits, and fungi that humans have, through ingenuity, inspiration, and sheer desperation, contrived to transform into alcohol over the centuries.

THE PENULTIMATE TRUTH

by Philip K. Dick

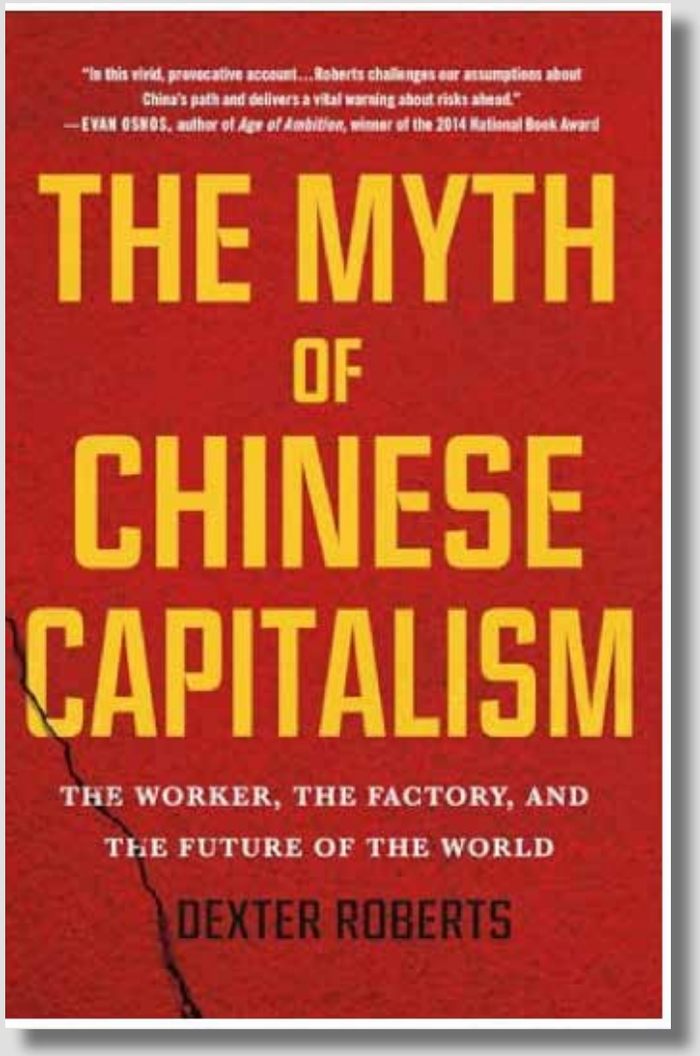

In this dystopian novel from the author of The Man in the High Castle, humanity is forced to live underground while a great secret hides above them.

LIFELINE

by Kevin J. Anderson, Doug Beason

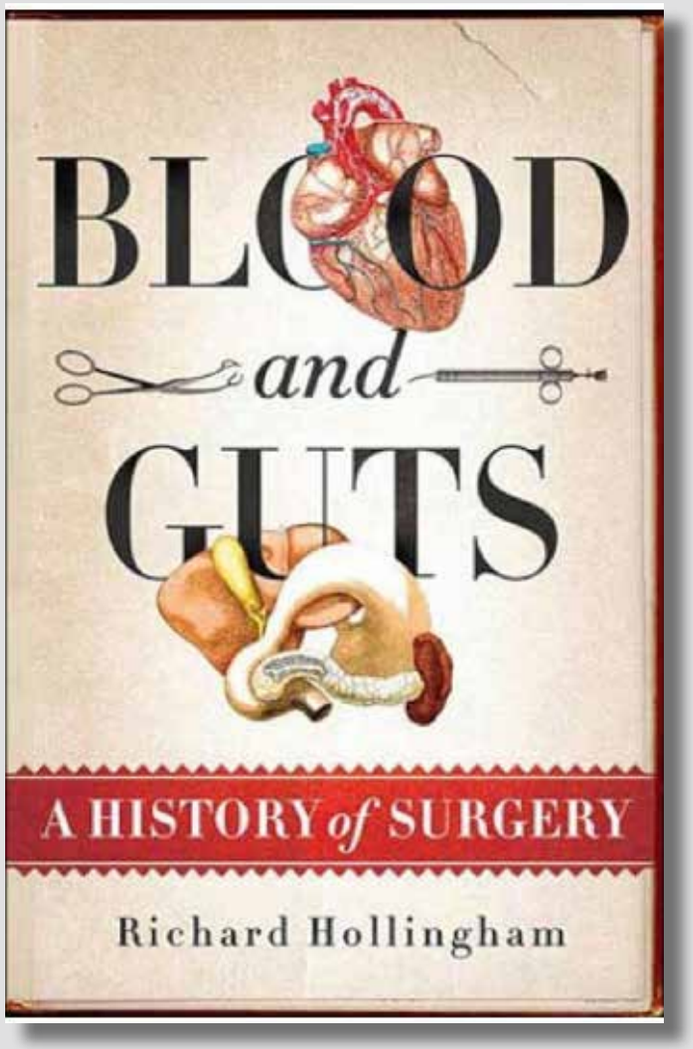

When war destroys life on Earth, three space colonies must continue the human race in this science fiction adventure from two best-selling authors.

THE MYTH OF CHINESE CAPITALISM

by Dexter Roberts

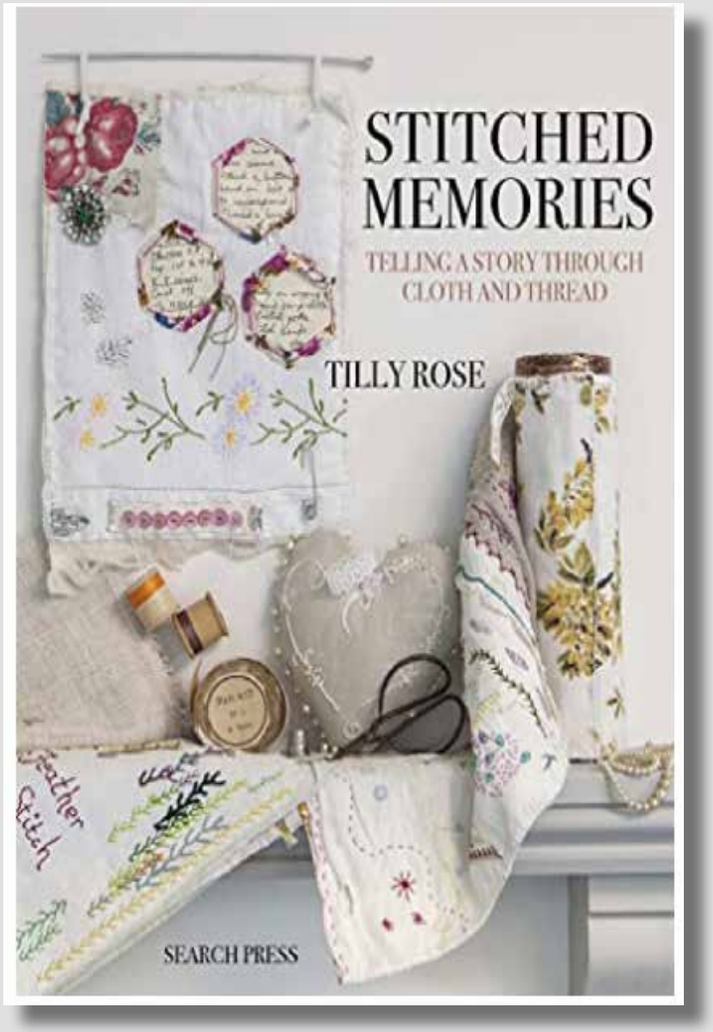

The "vivid, provocative" untold story of how restrictive policies are preventing China from becoming the world's largest economy (Evan Osnos).

BLOOD AND GUTS

by Richard Hollingham

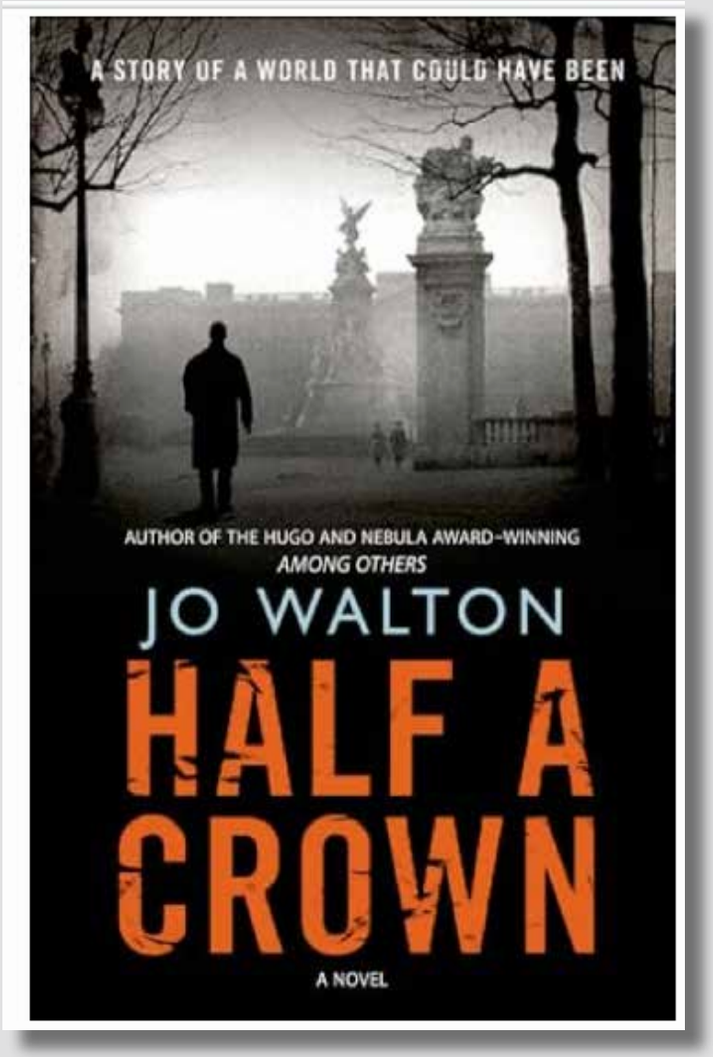

An “impressive” overview of the history of surgery based on the five-part BBC series, featuring tales of medical advances and deadly errors (Financial Times).

STITCHED MEMORIES

by Tilly Rose

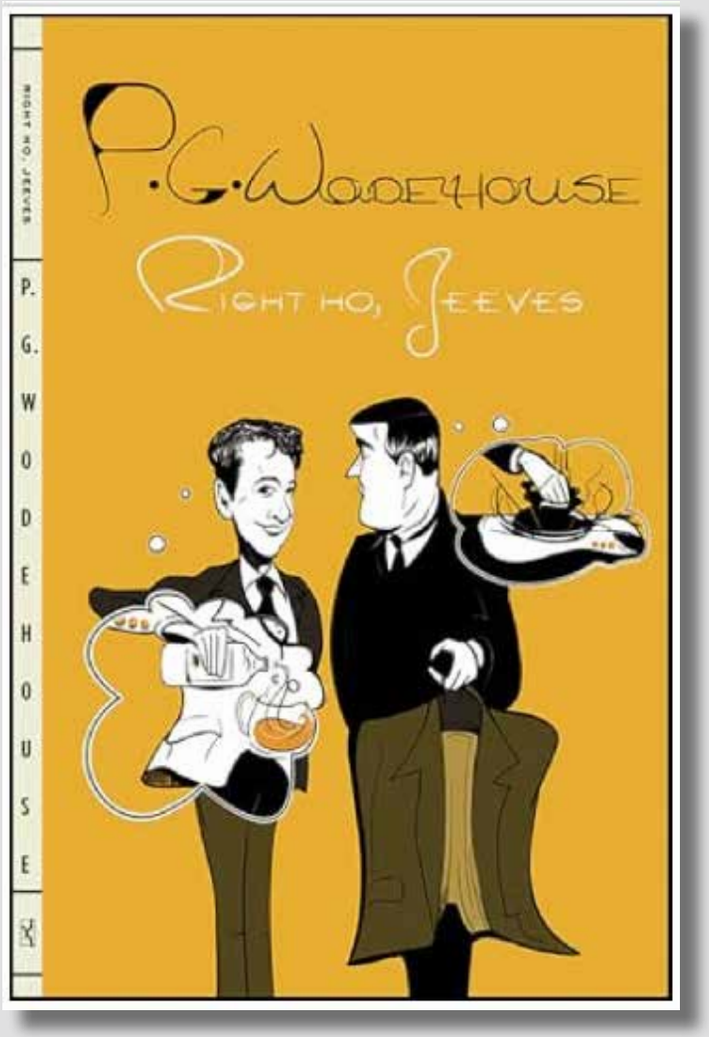

"Exquisite content . . . This beautiful book will inspire anyone to venture into the world of creating your own pieces of textile artworks."
—Hot Brands Cool Places

HALF A CROWN

by Jo Walton

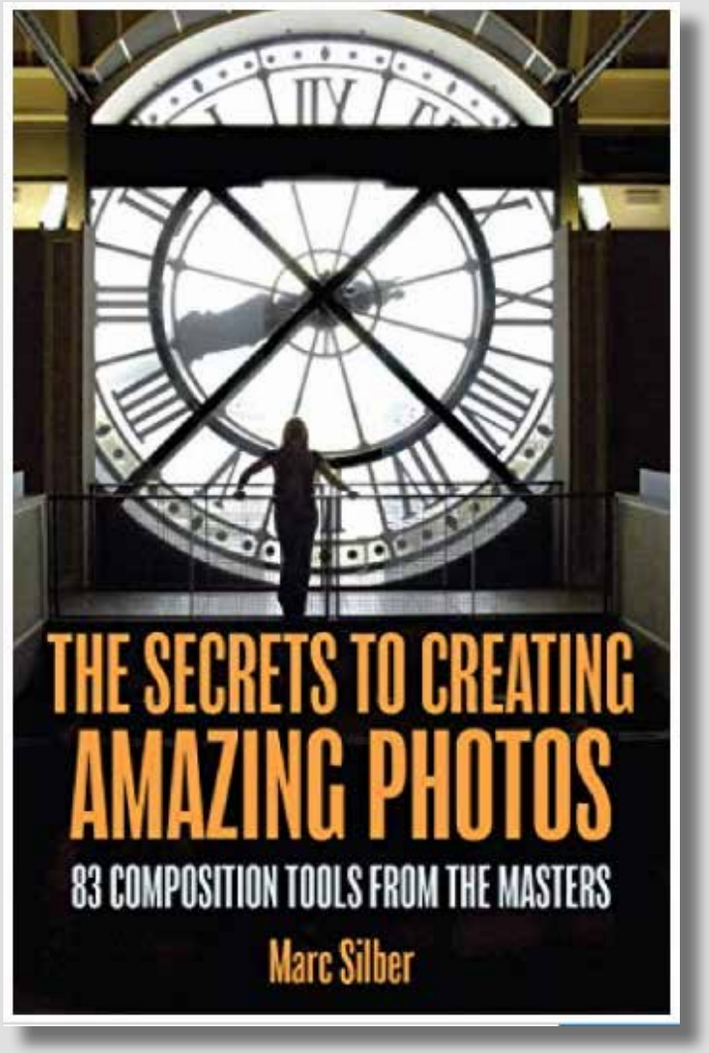

With “understated prose and deft characterizations” a Hugo and Nebula Award–winning author’s imagines post-WWII England as a fascist regime (Publishers Weekly).

RIGHT HO, JEEVES

by P. G. Wodehouse

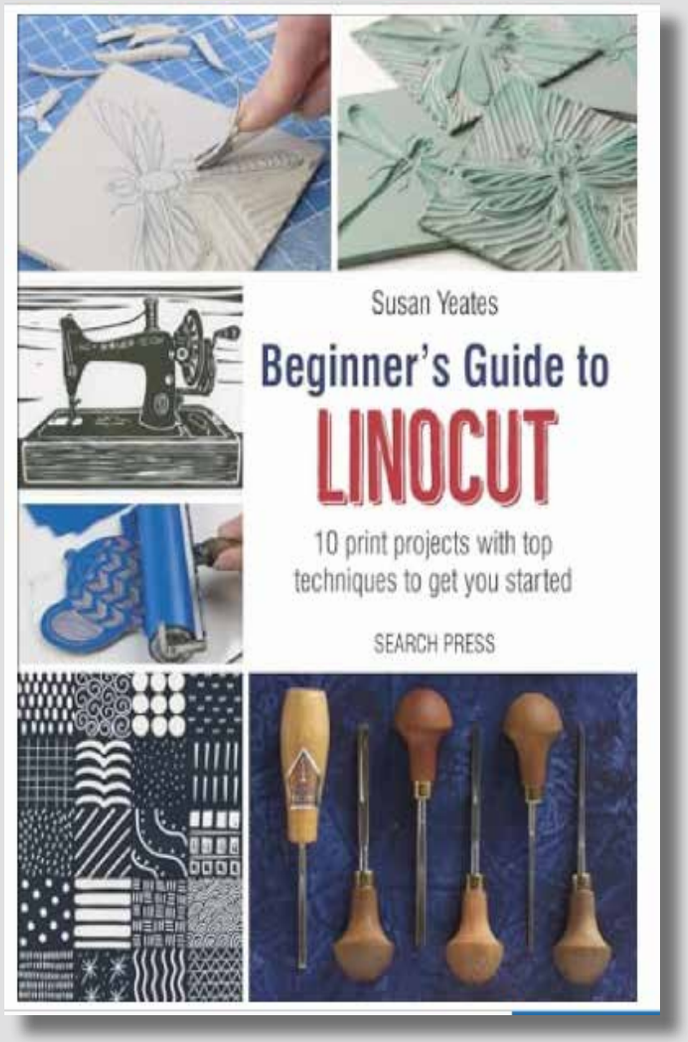

"To dive into a Wodehouse novel is to swim in some of the most elegantly turned phrases in the English language."—Ben Schott Follow the adventures of Bertie Wooster and his gentleman's gentleman, Jeeves, in this stunning new edition of one of the greatest comic novels in the English language.
Bertie must deal with the Market Snodsbury Grammar School prize giving, the broken engagement of his cousin Angela, the wooing of Madeline Bassett by Gussie Fink-Nottle, and the resignation of Anatole, the genius chef. Will he prevail? Only with the aid of Jeeves!

THE SECRETS TO CREATING AMAZING PHOTOS

by Marc Silber

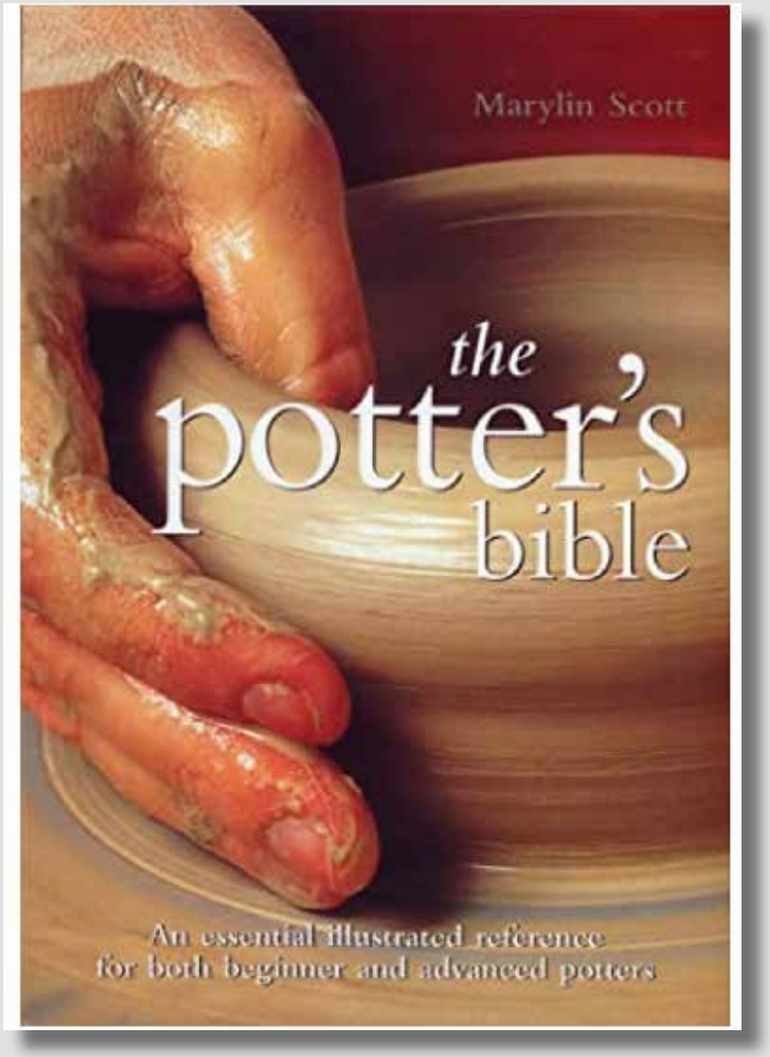

"This friendly book leads us clearly and gracefully from the basics to advanced techniques in photography composition . . . highly recommended." —Brian Taylor, executive director, Center for Photographic Arts

EMPRESS

by Shan Sa

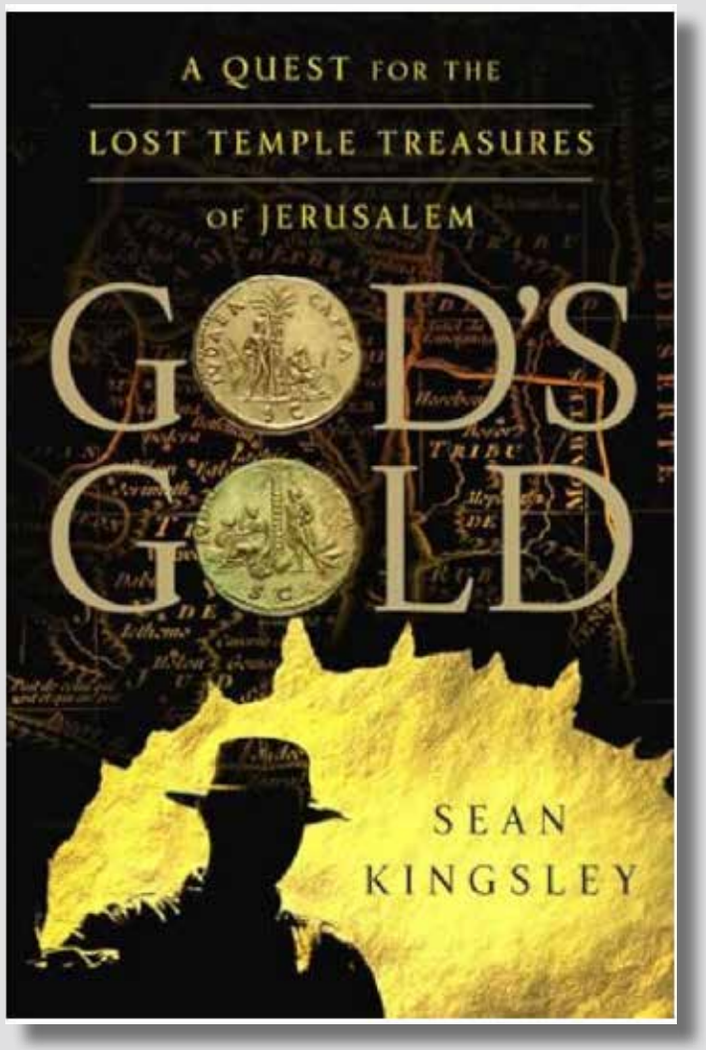

Such is the voice of Shan Sa's unforgettable heroine in her latest literary masterpiece, Empress. Empress Wu, one of China's most controversial figures, was its first and only female emperor, who emerged in the seventh century during the great Tang Dynasty and ushered in a golden age. Throughout history, her name has been defamed and her story distorted by those taking vengeance on a woman who dared to become emperor.
But now, for the first time in thirteen centuries, Empress Wu (or Heavenlight, as we come to know her) flings open the gates of the Forbidden City and tells her own astonishing tale—revealing a fascinating, complex figure who in many ways remains modern to this day.Writing with epic assurance, poetry, and vivid historic detail, Shan Sa plumbs the psychological and philosophical depths of what it means to be a striving mortal in a tumultuous, power-hungry world.
Empress is a great literary feat and a revelation for the ages.The Apocalypse does not end. The Changed will grow in numbers.

GOD'S GOLD

by Sean Kingsley

In 70 AD, the Roman emperor Vespasian and his son Titus plundered the great Temple of Jerusalem, claiming for themselves a priceless hoard.
The golden candelabrum, silver trumpets, the bejeweled Table of the Divine Presence—the central icons of the Jewish faith—were cast adrift in Mediterranean lands and exposed to centuries of turbulent history and the rule of four different civilizations.
Only an intriguing trail of clues remains to betray the treasure's ever-changing destiny—a trail eminent archaeologist Dr. Sean Kingsley has followed on one of the most remarkable quests of this or any other age: the search for the final resting place of God's goldby Country Bumpkin

SHADOWS

by Ilsa J. Bick

The Apocalypse does not end. The Changed will grow in numbers. The Spared may not survive. Even before the EMPs brought down the world, Alex was on the run from the demons of her past and the monster living in her head.

After the world was gone, she believed Rule could be a sanctuary for her and those she'd come to love

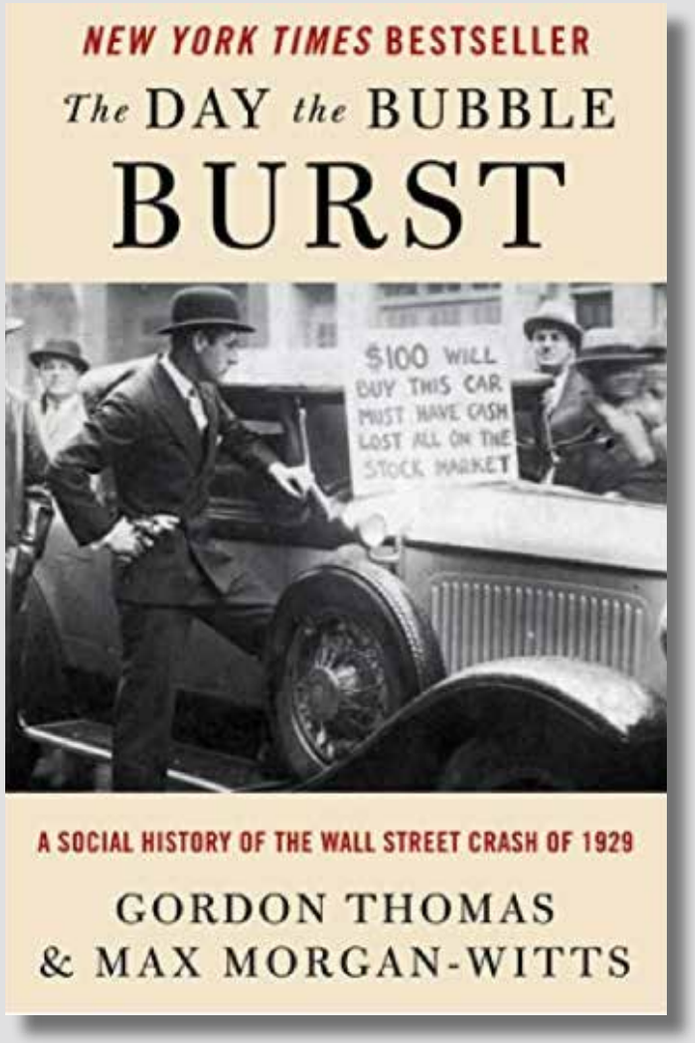

THE CRYSTAL WORLD

by J.G. Ballard, Robert Macfarlane

MEMORY OF WATER

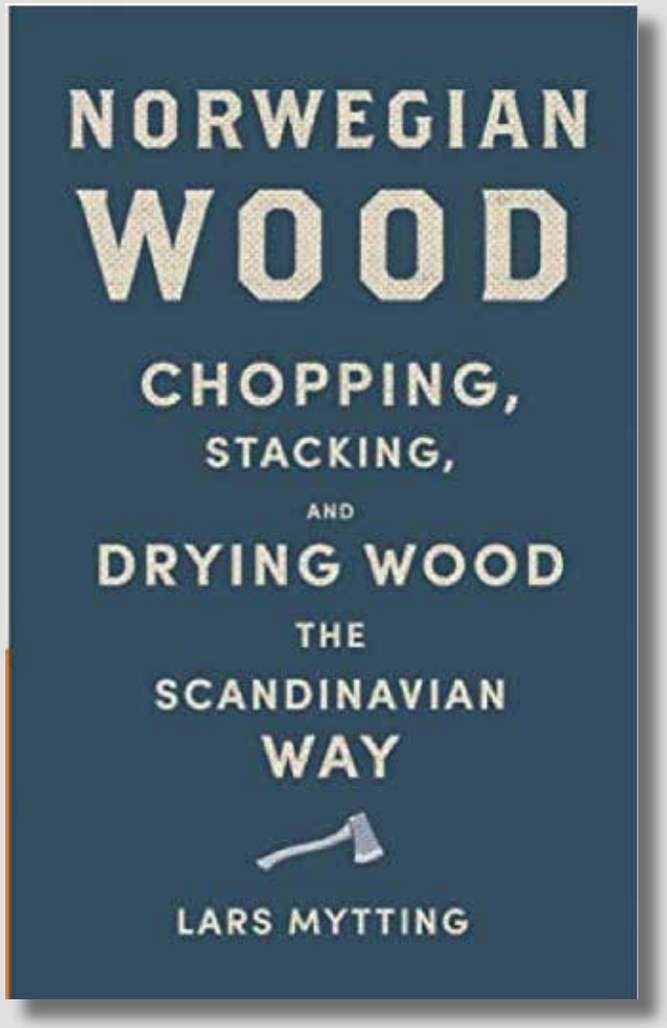

by Emmi Itaranta

An amazing, award-winning speculative fiction debut novel by a major new talent, in the vein of Ursula K. Le Guin.Global warming has changed the world's geography and its politics. Wars are waged over water, and China rules Europe, including the Scandinavian Union, which is occupied by the power state of New Qian.

In this far north place, seventeen-year-old Noria Kaitio is learning to become a tea master like her father, a position that holds great responsibility and great secrets. Tea masters alone know the location of hidden water sources, including the natural spring that Noria's father tends, which once provided water for her whole village.

But secrets do not stay hidden forever, and after her father's death the army starts watching their town—and Noria.

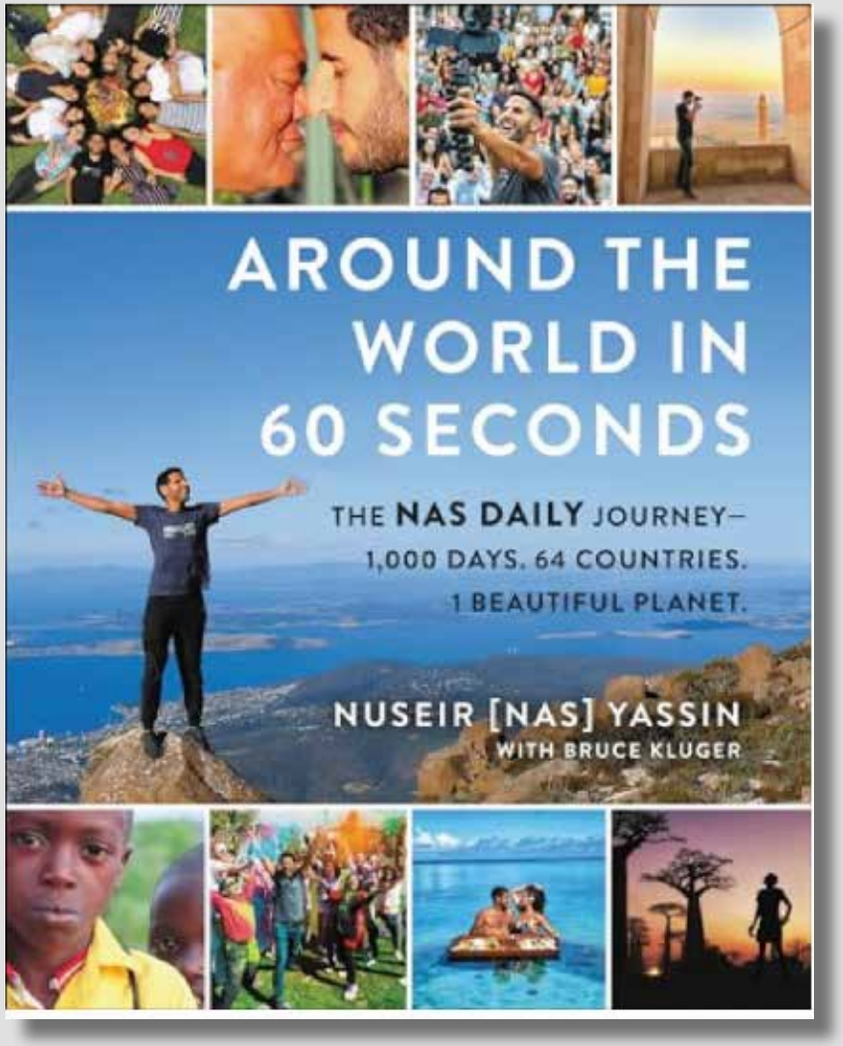

And as water becomes even scarcer, Noria must choose between safety and striking out, between knowledge and kinship.Imaginative and engaging, lyrical and poignant, Memory of Water is an indelible novel that portrays a future that is all too possible.

THAT PART WAS TRUE

by Deborah McKinlay

In this affecting and “rewarding” epistolary novel, two unlikely divorcés -- a romantic pessimist and a newfound bachelor -- get a second chance at love (New York Times Book Review).

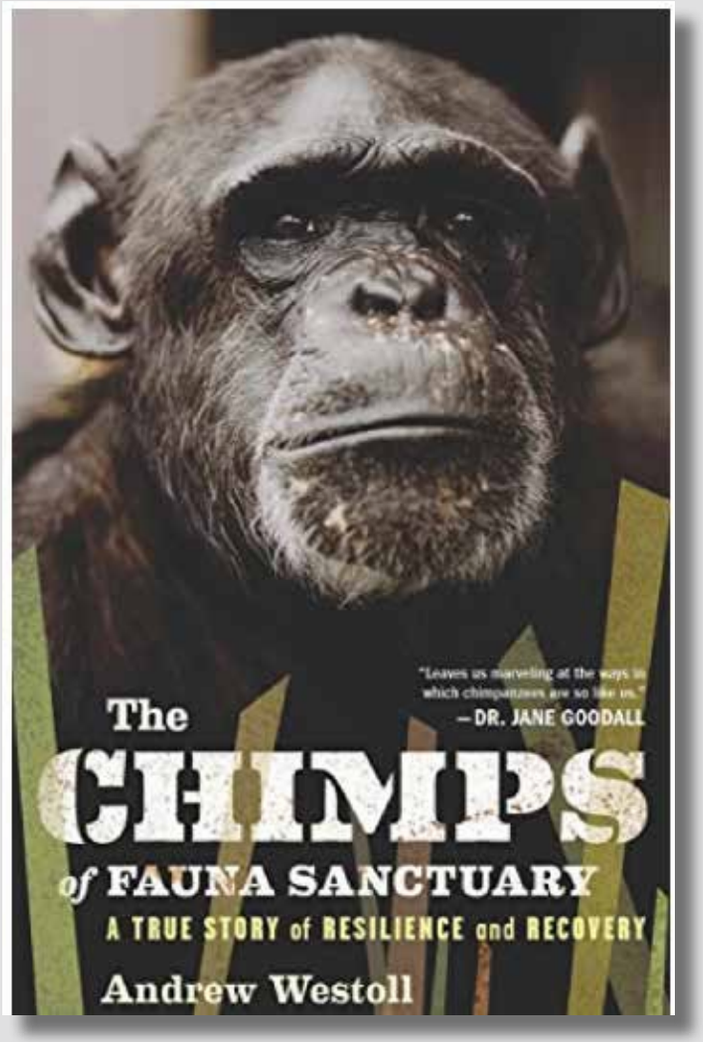

When Eve Petworth writes to Jackson Cooper to praise a scene in one of his books, they discover a mutual love of cookery and food. Their friendship blossoms against the backdrop of Jackson’s colorful, but ultimately unsatisfying, love life and Eve’s tense relationship with her soon-to-be married daughter. As each of them offers, from behind the veils of semi-anonymity and distance, wise and increasingly affectionate counsel to the other, they both begin to confront their problems and plan a celebratory meeting in Paris -- a meeting that Eve fears can never happen.

PERFECT LIFE

by Jessica Shattuck

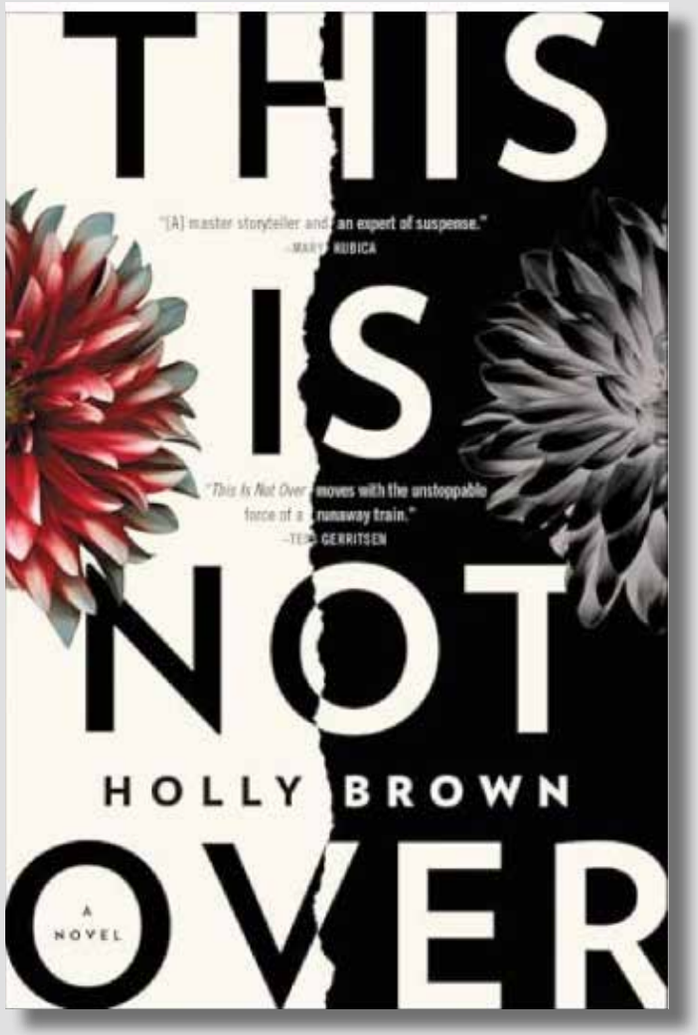

"Jessica Shattuck's engrossing, deceptively ambitious novel explores a wide range of subjects . . . with a shrewd and sympathetic eye."—Tom Perrotta "In this smart and engaging follow-up to her well-received debut, The Hazards of Good Breeding, Shattuck focuses on three privileged Gen X college roommates who are now grown up, coupled up, and raising kids in pre-recession Boston.
The cracks in their 'perfect lives' begin to show when the most precocious of the trio, a gorgeous striver named Jenny whose husband is infertile, makes the unconventional decision to have a baby with a sperm donation from Neil, her brainy, slacker ex-boyfriend from Harvard. . . . Stylish storytelling and sharp social commentary . . . make Perfect Life both topical and eminently readable."—People

THIS IS NOT OVER

by Holly Brown

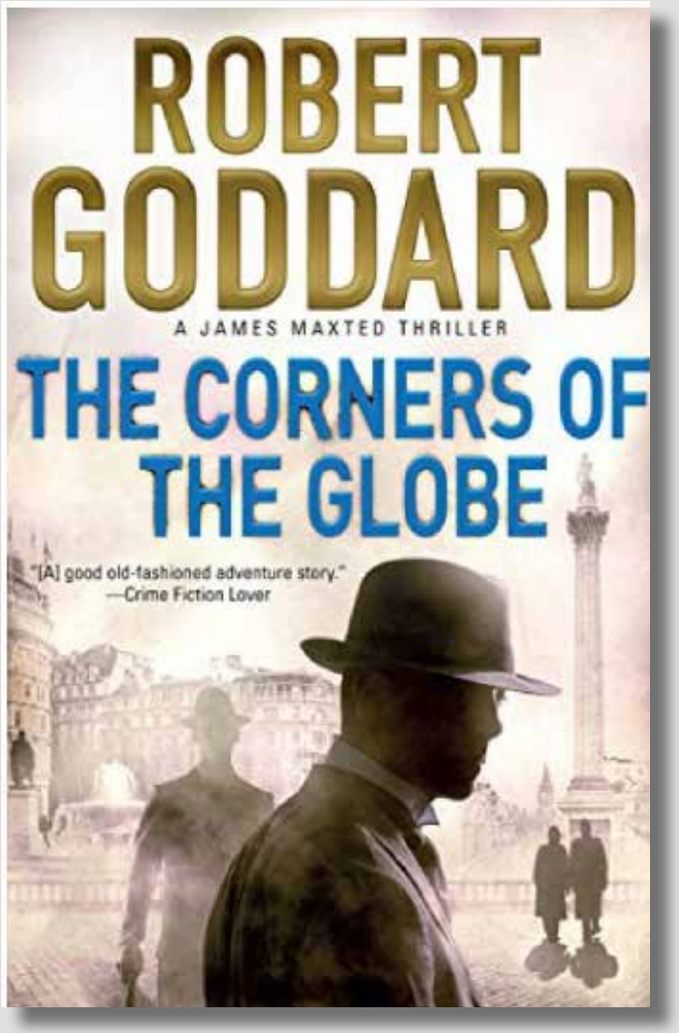

You'll have your deposit within seven business days, just like it says on Getaway.com. I've put through a refund to your credit card for the full amount, minus $200 to replace the stained sheets...MirandaWhen 30-year-old Dawn reads Miranda's email, she sees red. People have always told Dawn she's beautiful, and she just hopes they don't see beneath—to how she grew up, to what she's always tried to outrun. She revels in her getaways with her perfect (maybe too perfect) husband, the occasional long weekend in luxurious homes, temporarily inhabiting other people's privileged lives. Miranda's email strikes a nerve, with its lying intimation that Dawn is so dirty you need to throw out her sheets.Beware of your "host"I wouldn't have left a review at all, if I didn't feel it was my civic duty to warn others...57-year-old Miranda thought she'd seen it all, but she can't believe her eyes when she reads Dawn's review. She's a doctor's wife but she needs that rental money, desperately. People might think her life is privileged, but they don't know what's really going on. They don't know about her son.

LEAVE US ALONE

by Grover G. Norquist

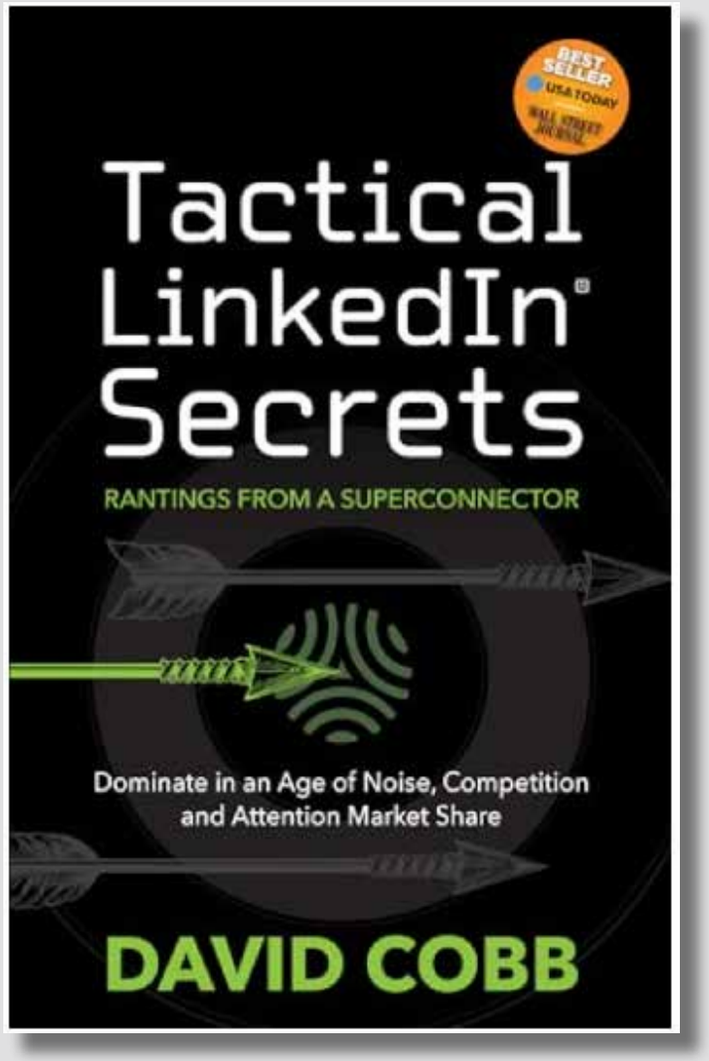

The new political movement that now controls much of the Republican party is a coalition of Americans who simply wish to be left alone by the government. They want to be free to run a business, keep the money they earn, own a gun, practice their faith, and perhaps homeschool their children—in short, to control their own destinies. Directly opposed is the descriptively titled Takings Coalition, which is at the heart of the tax-and-spend left. These forces will battle for control of America's future over the next fifty years. In this compelling and powerful narrative, Grover Norquist describes the two competing coalitions in American politics, what they can achieve and what they cannot do, and how you may fit into the contest.

DIGGING IN THE DARK

by Ben W. Johnson

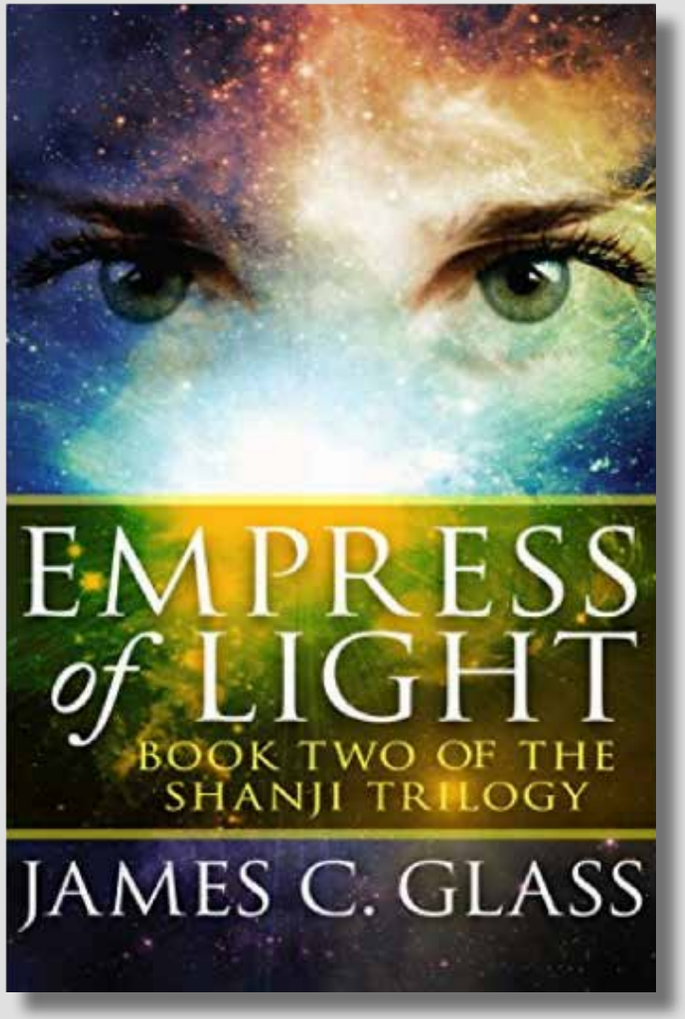

Progress can be unstoppable at times, and not even death can prevent the desire for knowledge. A dark trade has long existed to provide fuel for the fires of research, a trade which is viewed by many as the most despicable occupation of all.The resurrection men of Yorkshire came from all walks of life, and employed a myriad of macabre methods to raise their defenseless prey from beneath the consecrated ground.
This was a trade which offered great reward, but was definitely not for the faint of heart. Throughout this journey into the dark past of Yorkshire, we meet an infamous celebrity who made an unexpected reappearance, a traveling minstrel who was to become the talk of many towns, a child whose death was just the beginning of a tragic tale, and a holy man who helped a community but earned his own illicit rewards in return.

by James C. Glass

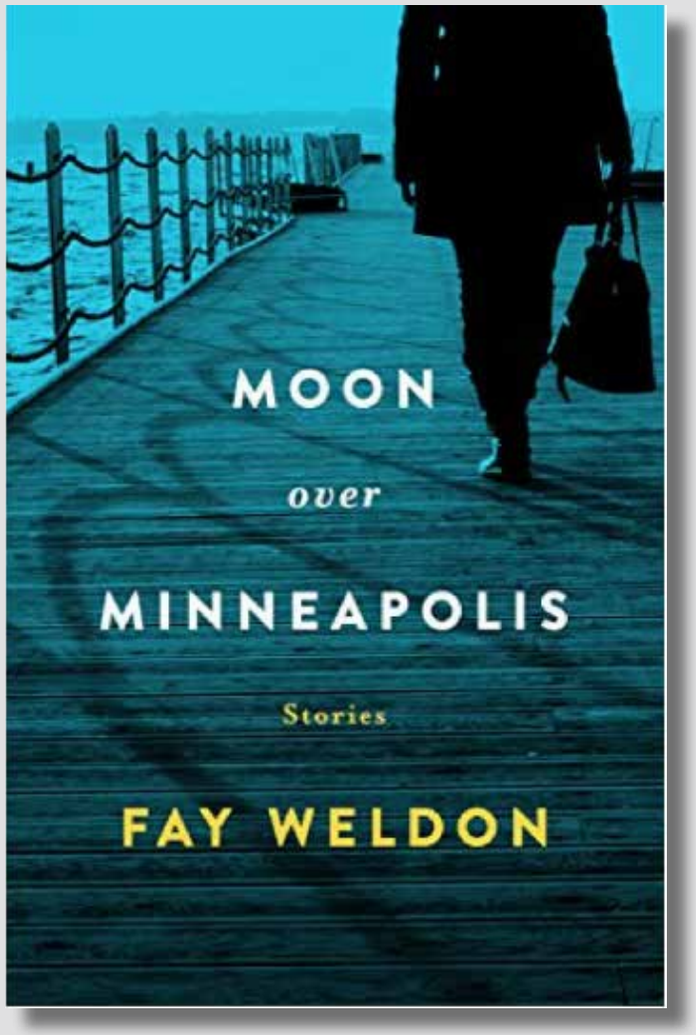

Kati used the light of creation to win a war, and now, as empress, she must forge new alliances with former enemies. When her daughter, Yesui, is born with powers exceeding her own, Kati discovers that raising a super-being is no simple task. Yesui, a willful prankster, enjoys torturing her baby brother, Mengjai, who also turns out to be much more than he seems. But Yesui is the true Empress of Light and is later called upon to save a dying gaseous planet by adding mass to its core. There she falls in love with a gentle empath and must help in resisting a coup that endangers his family. Along the way, she discovers beings with powers even greater than her own, and learns that death is only a transformation to something new.

LONDON'S ARTS LABS AND THE 60S AVANT-GARDE

by David Curtis

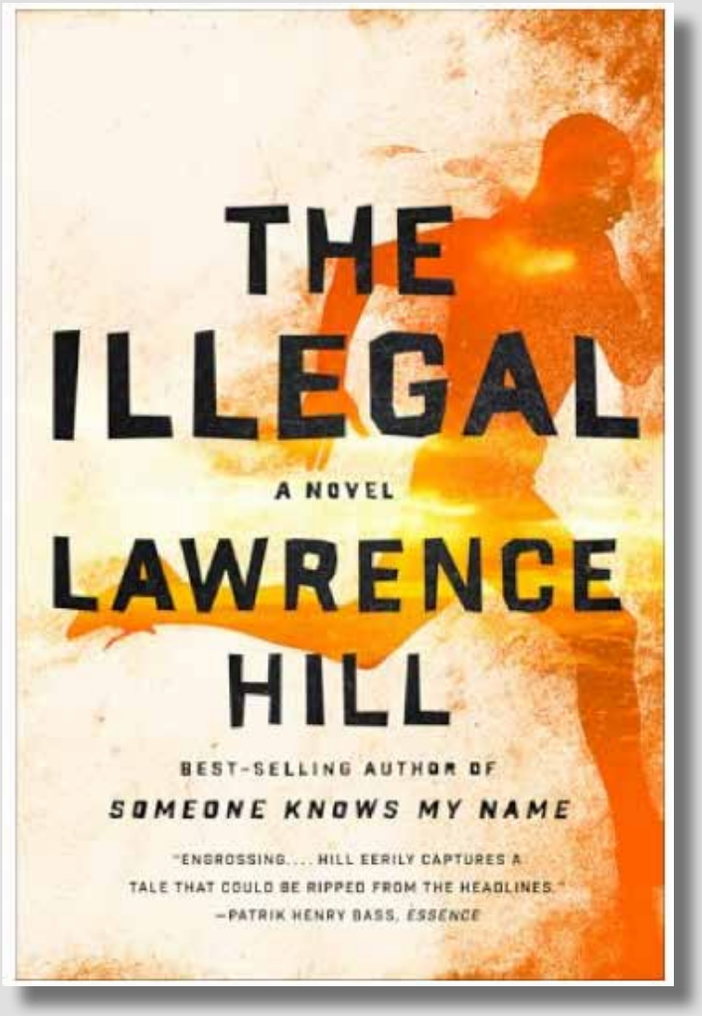

This is the story of two short-lived artist-run spaces that are associated with some of the most innovative developments in the arts in Britain in the late 1960s. The Drury Lane Arts Lab (1967–69) was home to the first UK screenings of Andy Warhol's twin-screen 3 hour film Chelsea Girls, challenging exhibitions (John and Yoko / John Latham / Takis / Roelof Louw), poetry and music (first UK performance of Erik Satie's 24-hour Vexations) and fringe theatre (People Show / Freehold / Jane Arden's Vagina Rex and the Gas Oven / Will Spoor Mime Theatre). The Robert Street 'New Arts Lab' (1969–71) housed Britain's first video workshop TVX, the London Filmmakers Co-op's first workshop and a 5-days-a-week cinema devoted to showing new work by moving-image artists (David Larcher / Malcolm Le Grice / Sally Potter / Carolee Schneemann / Peter Gidal).

SPIES WHO CHANGED HISTORY

by Nigel West

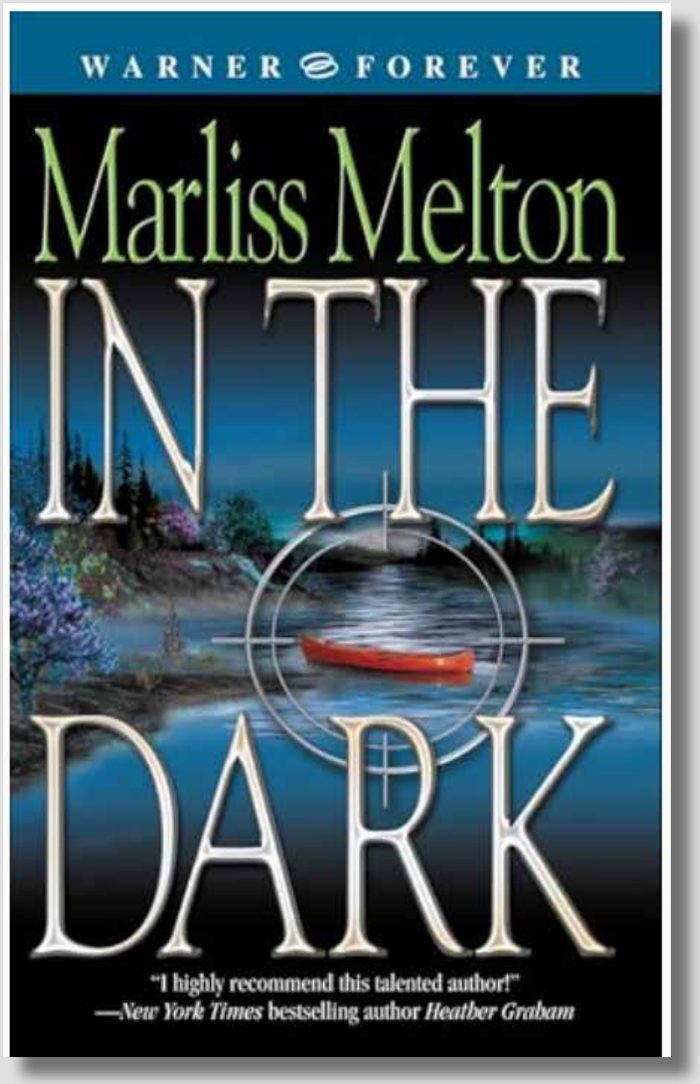

Spies have made an extraordinary impact on the history of the 20th Century, but fourteen in particular can be said to have been demonstrably important.
As one might expect, few are household names, and it is only with the benefit of recently declassified files that we can now fully appreciate the nature of their contribution.
The criteria for selection have been the degree to which each can now be seen to have had a very definite influence on a specific course of events, either directly, by passing vital classified material, or indirectly, by organizing or managing a group of spies. Those selected were active in the First World War, the inter-war period, the Second World War, the Cold War and even the post-Cold War era.
These include Walther Dewé who formed a spy ring in German-occupied Belgium during the First World War.

FORGED IN FIRE

by J. A. Pitts

WHAT WOULD DOLLY DO?

by Lauren Marino

A spirited homage to Dolly Parton that captures the unique humor, no-nonsense wisdom, flash, and sass of one of America's most iconic stars.

One of twelve children raised in a shack in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains, Dolly Parton grew to become an international superstar famous for classic songs such as "Jolene," "9 to 5," "The Coat of Many Colors," and "I Will Always Love You." She is a reflection of the American dream, a role model for the ages, and a mentor to a whole new generation of entertainers.

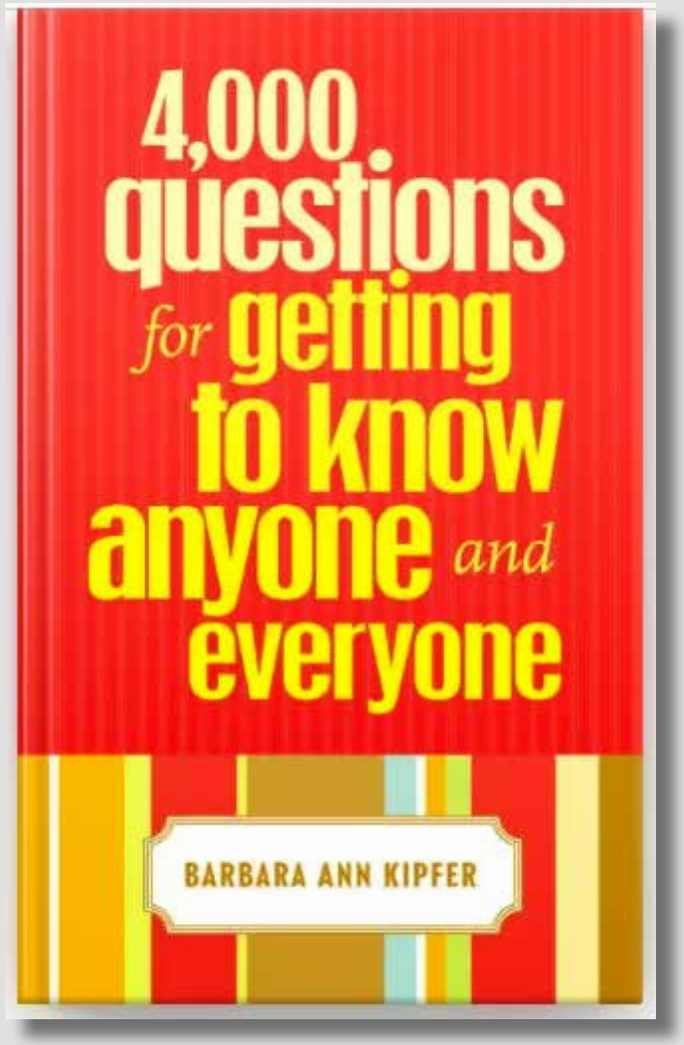

There is much to be learned from her unique brand, her big heart and spirituality, her grit and work ethic. This lively, illustrated book--part biography, part inspiration, part words of wisdom and life lessons--highlights the very best of the "Dolly Mama," from her quotable Dollyisms, unrelenting positivity, and powerful spirituality, to her belief in the human ability to overcome adversity.

IDEAS FOR INSPIRATION part 5

I think that going to the supermarket or any other store can fill up your bucket with ideas.

If I have time, I walk around and look at the different packages. Some of them look so well designed and they grab your attention from far, and yet you can still find some that you wonder how they got to the shelfs.

Anyway, I think is good educational experience to explore the stores.

STRAWBERRY JAM & BUTTER COOKIES

1 ¾ cups All-Purpose Flour
¼ tsp Salt
½ tsp Baking Powder
½ cup Butter (1 stick), softened
½ cup Sugar, plus extra for rolling
1 Egg
1 tsp Vanilla Extract
½ cup Strawberry Jam

Preheat oven to 350°F. Line two baking sheets with parchment paper or spray each with cooking spray.

In a bowl, whisk together flour, salt and baking powder. In a separate bowl, beat butter and sugar until combined. Beat in egg and vanilla until just combined. Slowly beat in dry ingredients, mixing until just combined.

Roll dough into 1-inch balls and roll balls in extra sugar. Place on prepared baking sheets 2 inches apart. Press thumb gently into the center of each ball, about ¼ inch deep. Fill each thumbprint with about ½ tsp jam.

Bake 15–17 minutes or until edges are golden.
Makes 24 cookies.

BOB'S OLD FASHIONED BISCUITS

2 cups All-Purpose Flour
1 Tbsp Baking Powder
1 Tbsp Sugar
1 tsp Salt
5 Tbsp Butter
1 cup Milk

Preheat oven to 425°F. Whisk together the flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Cut in butter with pastry blender until the mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Slowly add milk and stir until dough just comes together. Dough will be wet and sticky.

Turn dough out onto a lightly floured surface and knead 15 times. Gently roll or pat dough to 1 inch thick. Cut biscuits with a biscuit cutter. Place biscuits on ungreased baking sheet.

Bake 12–15 minutes or until golden brown.
Makes 6 big biscuits.

PEANUT BUTTER BROWNIES

For Brownie Base:
1 cup Semisweet Chocolate Chips
8 Tbsp (1 stick) Butter, cut into quarters
3 Tbsp Cocoa Powder
1 ¼ cups Sugar
½ tsp Salt
2 tsp Vanilla Extract
3 Eggs
1 cup All-Purpose Flour

For Peanut Butter Swirls:
5 Tbsp Butter, melted
½ cup Peanut Butter
½ cup Powdered Sugar
¼ tsp Salt
½ tsp Vanilla Extract

Set oven rack to middle position and heat oven to 350°F. Line an 8-inch baking pan with parchment paper (or foil), leaving the edges hanging over the side of the pan. Spray with cooking spray.

In a bowl, microwave chocolate and 8 Tbsp butter for 30 seconds. Stir and microwave for another 30 seconds. Stir and repeat until melted. Whisk in cocoa powder until smooth and set aside to cool.

For peanut butter swirl combine melted butter, peanut butter, powdered sugar, salt and vanilla in a bowl and stir until smooth. Set aside.

In a large bowl, whisk the sugar, salt, vanilla, and eggs until combined. Whisk melted chocolate mixture into egg mixture. Stir in the flour until just combined. Do not over-mix. Pour mixture into the prepared pan. Drop dollops of peanut butter mixture on top of brownie batter. Use a butter knife to swirl in the peanut butter.

Bake 35–40 minutes or until a toothpick inserted comes out mostly clear. Cool on a wire rack for 1 hour. Pull from pan using liner.
Makes 16 brownies.

Our Increasing Family Photo
The Garza Siete, circa 1990
Juntos es mejor
OUR STORY
The Siete story began during the Garza family's collective health journey, when Veronica Garza made a tortilla from almond flour. Her Grandma Campos said it tasted "even better than my homemade tortillas," and it ensured the family of seven (Siete!) could still enjoy heritage-inspired meals without sacrificing flavor or texture.
Siete continues to make delicious Mexican-American products using innovative and simple ingredients. We create nourishing foods the whole family can gather together to enjoy because Juntos es Mejor!

Homemade Easy

Just add water, mix and bake!

PREP

- 1 Pkg. Original Recipe Scone Mix
- 2/3 cup + 1 tablespoon cold water
- Preheat oven to 375°F.
- Lightly grease baking sheet pan, line with parchment paper, or use wedge-shaped scone pan.

MIX In bowl, add water to mix and stir with fork until combined and sticky dough forms. If dough seems dry, add additional water 1 teaspoon at a time.

Do not eat raw batter.

BAKE Drop heaping tablespoons of dough (10-12) about 3" apart onto prepared pan. For triangle-shaped scones, shape by hand into triangle or if using a wedge-shaped pan, drop even mounds of dough into each cavity and spread into triangle shape. Bake 14-16 minutes, or until firm and lightly golden on top.

EASY GLAZE RECIPE: Stir 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 TBS. + 1 tsp. milk & ½ tsp. vanilla until smooth.

Here in the USA, the greeting cards is a huge market.
In many stores there are special sections with so many types of cards.

The design of some of them is so good - excellent choice of typeface, colors and images. I think just spending time to explore their design is good resource for ideas.

When I started to learn more about graphic design, the posters were one of the most interesting subjects to me.

It was a big challenge because you had to be able to summarize the message that you want to send to the audience with just one page.

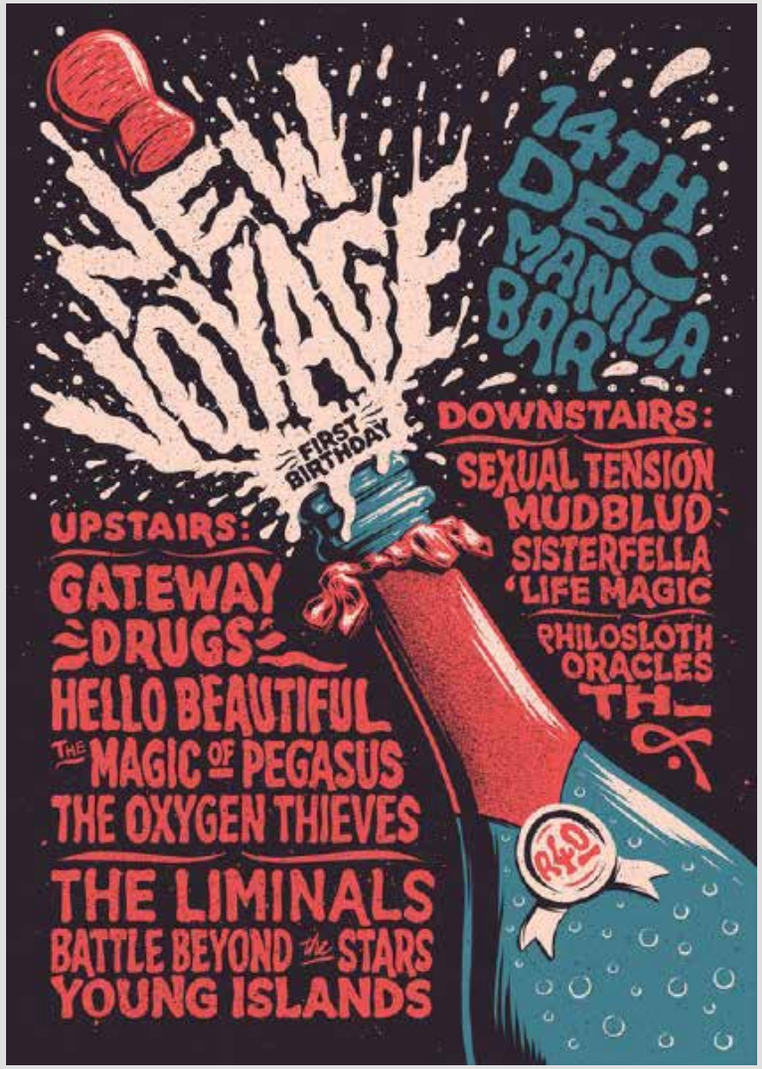

I remember when we had to project in the class, we were having every week discussion how we can make it better and it was interesting to see the beginning, the end and the different stages of the design.

The wisdom that I took was that is just one page (most of the time) but takes so much efforts to create a beautiful design.

HISTORY
In the 1920s and 1930s the term Futurism was loosely used to describe a wide variety of aggressively modern styles in art and literature. The Italian poet Filippo Tommaso Marinetti coined the term in 1909 for a movement founded and led by himself.
Futurism was the first deliberately organised, self-conscious art movement of the twentieth century. It quickly spread to France, Germany, Russia and the Americas, appealing to all who had tired of romanticism, decadence and semi-mentality, desirous of something more vigorous and robust, something in keeping with the Machine Age. Speed, noise, machines, transportation, communication, information ... and all the transient impressions of life in the modern city intoxicated Marinetti and his followers. They despised fame, bourgeois virtues and tastes, and above everything else, loathed the cult of the past. One Italian critic labelled them 'an ateliguri' calling them 'the caffeine of Europe.' In a series of manifestos designed to shock and provoke the public, they formulated styles of painting, music, sculpture, theatre, poetry, architecture, cooking, clothing, and furniture. The manifestos vividly preserve the flavor of the movement. They still provoke, irritate, and amuse while opening endless possibilities still under exploration today.

I like going to a galleries.
Even when I go to another country, I will try to find time to visit local galleries.

Painters put so much work to create a piece of art. It can be inspiration for a designers to see how they use light, shadows, and see the effects of mixing colors.

FOR INSPIRATION
part 6

I think that going to the supermarket or any other store can fill up your bucket with ideas.

If I have time, I walk around and look at the different packages. Some of them look so well designed and they grab your attention from far, and yet you can still find some that you wonder how they got to the shelfs.

Anyway, I think is good educational experience to explore the stores.

Everybody's Talking!

Pumpkin Seeds: In Colonial, North Shore Pennsylvania, farmers, quite for a time while others ran around looking for "food" in a good economy. This was the case with the Pumpkin Seed. Now that there are more competitors, they've improved and provided and guide their way across a table. The pumpkin is also regarded for its rare and most wide of all. 250 Kilograms (550 pounds) or more, depending on the weight of the carpenter. The record is 25 meters (150 feet) long and the largest ever to be shown competed was from Germany.

New zealand: 40 acres of cranes for bus in the quarry of the Thames River, which flow through London, England. Recently, an unusual occurrence was spotted. A white flying whale that is about 2.5 meters (11 feet) in length. That whale seems to be healthy, though no one has seen such large Leviathans and living for hunting for their food. Researchers are trying for hunting for the whale, which they have finally nicknamed Benny the Beluga. Benny's whales are third endangered found near the Arctic, so the creature could be more than 1,000 miles (1,609 kilometers) from a home that is probably around Greenland, Norway's Svalbard Islands, or the Russian Sea.

Cool crossings: In Glenbrook, a town street in the middle of Rotterdam, Netherlands around the street can be an interesting experience. Some crossroads have been marked as a height of huge zebras and stripes, which makes them hard to miss. The pavement may feel a exactly the same. The artwork makes the neighborhood look better of the surrounding environment from drivers who may not be paying attention. The creative zebra walks are intended to slow down drivers traffic make crossings safer as it is proven where there's traffic make crossings safer. A lot of pedestrians have come to the area to get with to protect from the rain. "Good thought" said "Said Pieter Jan Hoogstad, a spokesman for the city of Rotterdam.

Finished lands: When guests attend the wedding of a friend or family member, they usually bring a wedding gift and bring among a couple covered in shell dust. What it was about a spread. This seemed to didn't start out for a Canadian couple who wanted perfect guests to see it. [illegible]
